

Kennedy Not Happy with 7-7 Tie

By Bob Lana
Gazette Sports Writer

They say "Remember the Alamo." But how can you forget the first two football meetings between Kennedy and Washington?

Washington, the No. 2 ranked prep team in the state, was outevenged by the Cougars Thursday night at Kingston stadium and had to battle back for a 7-7 deadlock.

In their first season last year, the Cougars jumped to a 13-0 halftime lead before the Warriors bounced back for a 26-20 triumph en route to a No. 3 state rating and a share of second in the Mississippi Valley conference.

"No we weren't playing for a tie and aren't happy with it," said Cougar Coach Dale Tryon, who witnessed the first tie by one of his teams in 12 years of coaching.

"Washington's linebackers were dropping off the line of scrimmage and we kept thinking one of our fast backs could break all the way through. We hoped to get inside the Wash 30 and kick a field goal, as we feel we have one of the finest kickers around in Steve Hines."

Tryon was referring to the Cougars' final march after Wash's TD. Mark Votroubek gained only four yards in two carries before Kirk Jamison hit Denny Schott for 13 yards and a first down at the Kennedy 44.

Paul Debban then hit three straight passes — one to Schott for 14 yards and another to Steve Smith for seven before combining with Smith for 30 yards which carried to the Warrior two as the final horn sounded.

It was Hines who nearly spelled complete disaster for the Warriors as it was.

Returning after a week off to recuperate from a mild concussion, Hines grabbed a pass from Debban at the Warrior 35, shook off a couple of tacklers and carried it in for a 50-yard touchdown play. Bruce DeSotel added the conversion and Kennedy led 7-0 with 4:53 left in the first quarter.

Little Chuck Norton, who weighs in at 142 pounds soaking wet and was the workhorse with 88 yards in 24 carries, led the early Cougar TD march. He hauled the ball six out of the first seven times, picking up 33 of his total yards for the night.

It was also the 205-pound Hines who halted Wash's Doug Winfrey on a fourth-and-goal effort at the Cougar three early in the final period. Winfrey played only briefly (five carries for four yards) because of an injured knee.

A few plays earlier, the Warriors had what appeared to be the tying TD when speedy Denny Smith returned a Kennedy punt 53 yards only to have it nullified by a clipping penalty against Bob Rusley inside the five yard line.

After holding Wash at the three, the Cougars took over and used up valuable time on the clock with two first downs. However, Kennedy was finally forced to give up the ball and the Warriors got their final chance from their own 40.

Cool-headed quarterback Kyle Skogman led the charge which started with only 2:32 left in the game.

After two incomplete passes, the Warrior fans gasped for air. But "Skog" then hit Rusley on a 19-yard aerial carrying to the Cougar 41, and on the next play, he found Jeff Johnson along the sidelines for a 39-yard play which moved to the Kennedy two with 1:59 showing.

Fullback John Chavez, who was the leading Wash ball carrier with 48 yards in 15 attempts, plunged over from the two. Skogman put on his kicking shoe and converted for the tie.

"Kennedy was just out-hitting us on defense," Wash Coach Wally Sheets said. "We made a few adjustments, but I guess they wanted the game worse than we did. However, we did figure they'd throw more than they did."

The deadlock gave each team a 1-0-1 MVC mark (2-0-1 overall), but Kennedy kept its unbeaten string intact at five in a row.

O. J. Better Than O.K.

It's fun to notice his first name was misspelled throughout. Well, the USC press book also spells it "Orenthal", and that's what O.J. writes when he's forced to use something beside his initials.

But last year when we were out covering the Rose Bowl game we discovered his mother starchy maintains it really is "Orenthal" on his birth certificate.

No matter how you spell it, Orange Juice has got to be one of the most exciting college players who ever pulled on a pair of football pants—either one leg at a time or both legs.

Wait till you see what kind of a bonus he gets from some pro team next year!

"O.J. is the fastest man of his size (6-2, 205) ever to play the game," says his coach, John McKay. "He has run 9.4 in the hundred, and 4.5 in the 40 with football shoes on."

"Most backs are blinders. They see what's in front, but don't see what's at the side. The great ones can see the color and numbers of an opponent's jersey. O.J. is the only man I've known who can come back to the huddle and tell who made the key blocks."

Oddly enough, O.J. played tackle through his junior year in high school. His school was in an area populated mainly by Negroes and Chinese. The Oriental youngsters were mostly small, so they played in the backfield and the 180-pound O.J. was a tackle and one of the biggest lads on the squad. He was a fullback as a senior, then played mostly at flanker in two years of junior college ball before enrolling at USC in 1967.

"Counting his 39 rushes plus his pass receptions and kickoff returns, O.J. had the ball 48 times against Minnesota," points out Alex Agase, whose Northwestern team has the task of facing O.J. Saturday.

"Now it takes pursuit and gang tackling to bring him down because of his speed and power. He's getting hit three, four or five times every time he has the ball and you multiply that by 48 times and you see how amazing his durability is."

People ask Coach McKay why he has O.J. carry the ball that often, and they get a ready answer.

"If he doesn't want to carry the ball that much," replies McKay, "he can come into my office and tell me. But if he doesn't carry that much he'll have to block. And being an old back myself, I think I know how he feels about it."

"Besides, I don't know how carrying the ball can be so tough; it's not heavy."

● Friend of ours and his buddies went fishing for coho salmon in Lake Michigan recently. Their trip began with three straight days when they couldn't get out on the lake because of high winds. The weather cleared on the fourth day and they chartered a boat for $200. Didn't catch a thing. That wasn't the crowning glory; it came when the skipper told them—on the way home—that he didn't think much of coho salmon anyway, that this species was so poorly regarded on the West Coast that fisherman often threw away their catch rather than clean it. Well, at least the C.R. anglers had consolation: Someone told them there were about 7,000 fishermen on that area of Lake Michigan that weekend and they caught only 50 coho among them!

● Know what O. J. Simpson said after he carried the ball 39 times for 236 yards against Minnesota? "I was pretty tired," he said. "I think I need some game conditioning. I didn't fire off."

Hawks Go After Horned Frogs

Expect Lawrence to Play More

Those who have been saying Coach Ray Nagel should use Eddie Podolak and Larry Lawrence in the Iowa backfield at the same time may get the chance to say "I told you so" Saturday night.

Nagel indicated this week before the Hawkeyes took off Friday afternoon, he plans to test Podolak at tailback more than he did in the 21-20 upset of Oregon State. The game against Texas Christian will start at 7:30 p.m. (Iowa time) Saturday in Fort Worth, Texas.

Podolak was stunned by a head-on tackle late in the third quarter of the Oregon State game, so Lawrence took over at QB with Denny Green playing the tailback spot.

Prior to that, however, Iowa used several plays in which Podolak played about nine yards directly back of the center. Lawrence lined up in the QB spot under the center. This was designed to keep the defense guessing whether the center snap would be to Lawrence or clear back to Podolak.

Nagel promised this formation would be used more this week, sometimes to threaten a punt and other times to pass or run.

Picking a winner in Saturday night's game is not easy. Each team has had one game: Iowa nipping No. 8 ranked Oregon State and TCU losing by 17-7 to an unranked Georgia Tech team at Atlanta.

Iowa defeated TCU 24-9 in the 1967 opener at Iowa City. That was the Horned Frogs' first game under a new head coach, Fred Taylor, and it apparently took them a little while to get organized. They lost their first five games, then won four of the last five.

It's not difficult to see TCU improved more during the 1967 season than Iowa did, but the Hawkeyes have made bigger strides so far this year. If the game were in Iowa City, most experts wouldn't hesitate in picking Iowa.

But the home field is worth at least a touchdown. Iowa teams also are inexperienced at night. The Hawkeyes' last two were at UCLA in 1955 and at Miami, Fla., in 1966. They lost both by convincing margins. Last time Iowa won at night was at Southern California in 1950, 20-14.

The Hawks will work out under the lights on TCU's Amon Carter field Friday night to get used to the conditions.

Iowa has had fullback worries the last two weeks, although you wouldn't know it by the 112 yards Tim Sullivan gained in 16 carries last Saturday.

However, Sully played with a painful shoulder injury and not much improved this week.

Nagel indicated he may use Tom Wallace, the celebrated soph from Houston, Texas, who was such a disappointment in spring drills. Wallace has recovered from his shoulder injury and has been looking good in practice.

The rest of the lineup should be the same as last week's. Two Cedar Rapids players will start: Jon Meskimen at the offensive power guard spot and Layne McDowell at defensive right tackle. Lawrence and Bill Beville (defensive end) saw considerable duty last week. Gary Herman is still rated the No. 2 offensive power tackle although he didn't play Saturday.

FOOTBALL FORECAST

Egad, friends, there are thrills and chills galore in store for you this Saturday as Purdue and Notre Dame meet eyeball-to-eyeball, Ohio State makes its Record: 33-13-7 for .717.

1968 debut against potent SMU, and rugged Florida tangles with equally rugged Florida State — umkumh!

With the No. 1 rating awaiting the victor, the Irish and Boilermakers can be expected to go for broke. And for those two great competitors, Leroy Keyes and Terry Hanratty this is the rubber match.

In their sophomore year, Hanratty made Jim Seymour a national hero as the Irish routed Purdue. Last season it was Leroy's turn as he led the Boilermakers to a thrilling upset victory.

This year, the Hoople System, taxed to its very limitations assessing the contributing factors, gives the edge to host Notre Dame. In a titanic struggle the South Bend boys will prevail, 31-28.

My apologies to the Purdue adherents for bringing you such bad news but our computer, which I personally programmed, predicted the identical score projected by the secret Hoople Formula — harrumph!

This is the week my friend Woody Hayes has been awaiting impatiently. Woody wants to see how good his "Baby Buckeyes" really are — and he should learn in a hurry when the Southern Methodist Mustangs ride into Columbus.

Top Battle--Purdue Invades Notre Dame

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — The Kill Purdue signs are up at Notre Dame. The victory rallies are reaching an unreal crescendo. A maddening football scene is being set for Saturday.

Into the Poll Bowl maelstrom will march top-ranked Purdue against the No. 2 Irish, enthraling a sellout crowd of 59,000.

Last year, Seymour caught six passes. Then, through desperation more than anything, Purdue put Leroy Keyes on defense to tail him. The 6-foot-4 Seymour caught only one after that.

Keyes — who runs, passes, catches and kicks — is a definite part of the defensive game plan Saturday. In addition to his chores on offense, he will be assigned to cover Seymour.

"The unique thing about this game," says Irish Coach Ara Parseghian, "is that it matches the No. 1 and No. 2 teams so early in the season. The attention enhances the image of Midwest football. And I look for plenty of scoring on both sides."

"The rivalry is bitter but the sportsmanship excels," says Boilermaker Coach Jack Mollenkopf. "In some rivalries as bitter as ours, the two schools just hate. But this thing is downright enjoyable."

Game plans have been set, but they might go down the drain early.

"I don't think any plans are worth the paper they are written on," says Mollenkopf. "I'm sure Parseghian's game plan last year when we won 28-21 didn't call for him to have Terry Hanratty throw 63 passes."

The Hanratty catapult is loaded again. But he may release more quick passes to tight end Jim Winegardner than he does long ones to Jim Seymour. He may be forced into it by Purdue's rushmen who average 250 pounds and stand 6½ feet.

"They will be difficult for Terry to throw over if they come in with their hands high," admits Ara.

"If I'm not winded, I can handle Jim," says Keyes.

"But we've got to have a good pass rush. If Terry gets more than three seconds to get rid of the ball, we could be in trouble. I think we will score more points against Notre Dame than we did last year."

Notre Dame, a touchdown favorite, has a powerful running game but no breakaway speedster like Keyes. Also of concern to Ara is his inexperienced secondary which could be picked to pieces by passer Mike Phipps.

It will be up to the 1,000-pound Irish front four, headed by 270-pound Mike McCoy, to keep Phipps in the pressure cooker.

In the end, defensive should settle it, as it usually does. Both teams can go. The tougher defense will determine who has the ball more often.

C.R. Comets Play Saturday, Not Sunday

The Cedar Rapids Comets soccer team is scheduled to meet the Central college Dubs Saturday at 2 p.m. on the Robbins lake pitch and NOT Sunday as was earlier reported.

McNally Wins 22 for Orioles

By Hal Bock

St. Louis and Detroit go through their final World Series tuneups as baseball's regular season draws to a close this weekend with a batting title and several positions in the standings up for grabs.

In the National league, Cincinnati's Pete Rose and Pittsburgh's Matty Alou move into their final three games tied for the batting lead at .332. The Reds are at home for a three-game series with San Francisco while the Pirates close the schedule with three in Chicago.

In addition to the batting race, Cincinnati and Pittsburgh are involved in a four-team battle for third place. The Reds occupy that spot going into the final weekend but are only one game ahead of Chicago and two up on Atlanta and Pittsburgh.

Lower in the NL standings, Los Angeles and Philadelphia are tied for seventh place and New York has a one-game lead over Houston in the battle to avoid a cellar finish.

The Phillies are at New York, Los Angeles at Atlanta and Houston at St. Louis to finish the season.

In the American league, Boston holds a one-half game edge over Cleveland in the battle for third place after the Indians absorbed a 7-1 whipping from Baltimore in the only game played Thursday.

Dave McNally won his 22nd with a six-hitter and contributed two hits, driving in one run and scoring two.

Coe Expected To Pass Against Beloit

Coe's football team took its lumps last weekend in a 42-6 opening Midwest conference loss to defending champion Lawrence, but Coach Glenn Drahn feels his squad will be better because of it.

The Kohawks host Beloit, another team attempting to rebound from an opening setback, Saturday night at 7:30 p.m. at Kingston stadium. This will be the only night game in the conference this fall.

"Lawrence just physically manhandled us," Drahn said this week as he reviewed the opener. "We made a couple of bad defensive lapses early and because of their experience, they took advantage of them."

One thing which pleased Drahn in the opener was the Kohawks' passing attack and the veteran boss expects the other facets of the game to "come around."

Drahn had praise for the passing of senior quarterback John Raaz and the receiving of ends Mike Harris and Wayne Render and the Bucs, under first-year Coach Dick Teteak, can expect the same Saturday.

"Harris and Render each caught five passes against Lawrence," Drahn said. "They both looked good and we seemed to protect the passer better.

"I was disappointed in our ground game and our defense, which I figured would be tough, was poor. I just hope it was first-game jitters. But we came through the game in good physical shape and we had the chance to play everyone (33) who made the trip."

Rounding out the Coe backfield will be tailback George Farrel, slotback Jim Schnedden and fullback John Gerstner.

Beloit was working all week beefing up a defense which allowed Ripon 350 yards in its opening 35-13 loss to the Red-men.

"I'm sure Coe is a better team than the Lawrence score indicated," Teteak said, "and by the same token, Beloit is going to bounce back and do a lot of things better than it did against Ripon."

Teteak predicted two injured Bucs will be ready for Coe. They are co-captain-halfback Kim Burch (leg injury) and line-backer Vince Lapetino (mild concussion).
