

No sneak, no dive

• We were properly astonished when Iowa's Hayden Fry said he runs a sneak-less, dive-less offense.

When we stopped to think about it, though, we couldn't recall seeing Iowa use either play in the 31/2 seasons that Hayden has coached the Hawkeyes.

The subject came up when people asked why the Hawkeyes didn't use Chuck Long on a quarterback sneak from the sixinch line against Michigan last Saturday. Fullback Norm Granger hurt his shoulder on the previous play, so Owen Gill came in. Gill fumbled the ball away when it was struck by a Michigan player's

"We don't have a quarterback sneak in our offense," Hayden said. "Why should you do that when you've got all those big, strong guys back there whose job it is to carry the ball on running plays?

"No, in my 21 years as a head coach, I've never had a quarterback sneak. I learned that as an assistant coach under Frank Broyles at Arkansas, and from other coaches.

"You'll never see me using a simple dive play, either. I believe in getting an extra blocker into that hole before the ball carrier."

It must be that Hayden simply believes it's more efficient to use something other than sneaks and dives, as he obviously doesn't disdain using QBs on the draw or the option. In fact, Long reached the one-yard line on a quarterback draw just prior to the fumble Saturday. Hayden said his examination of the tapes indicated Long actually put the ball across the goal.

Well, does all this mean you'll never see Iowa running a quarterback sneak or a dive play? Don't bet the farm on it, Punchy, as Hayden later said, "We put one in last night (Monday).'

Was he kidding? We can't be sure. And we presume he intended that Minnesota's Joe Salem couldn't be sure, either.

Pass the hash

After his Ohio State football team lost three straight games, Coach Earle Bruce was called a "dimwit" by Score, a football tipsheet.

Well, there was never a horse that couldn't be rode, and never a rider that couldn't be throwed. Ohio State derailed Illinois' hell-bent drive for the Rose Bowl, and we wonder what poor ol' Earle is being called this week.

000 We liked the viewpoint on TV commentary written by Charles Price in the November issue of Golf

Digest: "Maybe the golf I have seen has been too much, but I no longer regard as 'great' an uphill, straightin six-foot putt made by a grown man who gets $36,000 even if he misses it."

000 • Ray Jauch, former Iowa halfback and assistant coach, certainly is tuning up for his 1983 debut as coach of the New York team in the new U.S. Football League.

Jauch's Winnipeg Blue Bombers are making a shambles of the Canadian Leaue race. Winnipeg stands 11-3, by far the best in the whole circuit, and has a 21/2-game lead in the Western Division. The Bombers last Sunday whipped Toronto, top team in the Eastern Division, 19-16.

000 • The father-son, coach-quarterback combination is an interesting one. Iowa went through it when Bob Commings recruited his son.

The Hawkeyes tonight will face Minnesota team that has Joe Salem as head coach and his son, Tim, as back-up quarterback to Mike Hohensee. Kansas State Coach Jim Dickey's son, Darrell, is his No. 1 QB.

Tom Osborne, Nebraska's head coach, has a son, Mike, who quarterbacks Lincoln East High, which had a 2-5 record at last look. Tom says if his boy plays for Nebraska, however, he'll have to do it as a walk-on, no scholarship. 000

• Fella who watched Michigan's 29-7 victory over Iowa asked if we noticed that the Wolverines' cheerleaders were all male. He wondered if women's libbers objected to this. We don't know why they should. We've never objected to watching cheerleaders we are all girls!

Marion rolls as Twachtmann breaks 3,000

The numbers continued to add up at Marion's Thomas Park Friday night, and the chief tabulator was senior running back Todd Twacht-

The Indians dispatched combative Monticello 20-0, and when it was over the 6-1, 195-pound Twachtmann had churned for 92 yards, giving him a total of 3,046 yards rushing over a career that spans three years and 30 games.

What's more, the all-purpose back had a hand in all three Marion touchdowns, running for two and tossing a 24-yard strike to backfield mate Jeff Wisehart to open the night's scoring. Twachtmann has now tallied 21 TDs this season. Add in five PAT kicks, a couple of twopoint conversions and a field goal, and his point total mounts up to 138. had to play a really tough game in a Marion continued to roll on, too. Now 7-1 overall, 6-0 in the Wamac Conference, the victory was the Indians' fourth straight shutout. Their league winning streak, stretching back to 1979, now stands at 25. The Indians have stormed past

However, the road to the Indians' lofty accomplishments wasn't an easy one, thanks to a rugged Monticello squad that dished out almost as much trouble as it

"I thought we would run into one of these nights somewhere along the way," said a grinning Marion Coach Dave Messerli. "Monticello played very well and made us do some things that we didn't want to do," he added, more seriously. "We haven't

"They're an excellent football team; they're always tough."

Tough because the Panthers held Twachtmann to his fewest yards of the season, 92 on 30 carries. Tough because Marion was limited to its lowest point production in Wamac play. And tough because Monticello's wishbone attack effectively dented the Indian defense.

"I thought we hit real good," said Monticello Coach Dean Nelson, who's now in his 27th season with the Panthers. "Our offense was pretty sputtery, but we did move the ball against them — just not over the goal line. I feel good about holding them to 20-0. I don't like to lose, but it's better than 58-0 like you would figure it would be on Twachtmann and too many other outstanding players around him."

Twachtmann said breaking the 3,000-yard marker was "a great honor. It really reflects on Marion High School's football program, how good a football program Marion really has. I don't feel overly talented, we've just had good linemen over the years. No back is going to be any good if he gets hit at the line of scrimmage.'

"It (the 3,000 yards) means a lot to me, it's something special. It was something to shoot for, and somewhere down the road it'll be something for someone else to go

Kennedy defensive back Joe Fergus (32) waits for the ball to clear the outstretched arms of teammate Tony Kriz (81) and Jefferson's Todd Cook (84) before making an interception and 38-yard return for a touchdown in Friday night's game at Kingston Stadium.

Jeff defense stars as Kennedy falls

By Bob Denney

Hey guys, the steaks are on Calloway.

Cedar Rapids Jefferson football coach Bill Calloway may have to dig in his pocketbook after the preparations his defensive coaching staff his head in agreement. made this week for Cedar Rapids Kennedy.

The staff scored well, with the J-Hawks' defense manhandling Kennedy Friday night at Kingston Stadium on the way to a 21-7 victory before 3,500 chilled fans.

The J-Hawks forced six turnovers, with senior defensive back Kevin Lighty taking four - three pass interceptions and a fumble recovery. Not bad for a defense that was next to worst in the Mississippi Valley conference.

So, who believes statistics?

Lighty, a 6-foot, 160-pounder, was but one standout in a J-Hawk defense that held Kennedy to 51 yards rushing and gave Cougar quarterback Brad Sleep nightmares. Sleep, the No. 1 passer in the Valley, hit only 9 of 26 passes for 114 yards, while under pressure all night by a fierce J-Hawk pass rush.

d 2-4 in the Valley. Kennedy slipped to 3-5 and closed its league play at 3-4. It was Jefferson's 13th win in 16 meetings with Kennedy.

Calloway's defensive staff has one "outsider" who figured heavily into the game preparations this week. Former University of Iowa standout Matt Petrzelka, now a law student, visited camp to aid the defensive linemen.

"Give Matt credit, along with the rest of our defensive coaches -Denny Kohl, Bob Allen, and Sean Shanahan," said Calloway. "Matt comes here from school to help us. He really fires the kids up.'

The sage advice must have sparked guys like noseguard Pat Robinson, linebacker Tim Carson and defensive end Scott Kramme. The trio were in the Cougar backfield all night.

Kennedy Coach Greg Reed shook

"They just beat us off the ball offensively and defensively," he said. "And, (Pat) Robinson was awesome for them out there. I was proud of the kids, however, for hanging in there as they've done the second half of the season. This was the first game where we were really out of it.

The J-Hawks, after committing six turnovers against Dubuque Wahlert a week ago, helped Kennedy suffer the same number of miscues. Lighty, who appeared to be in the Kennedy receiving corps, added a fumble recovery in the third quarter to go with his three pass thefts.

'We just played man to man coverage tonight," said Lighty, who has four interceptions this season. "We've come around slow this year, but it's nice to finally put things together at the end."

The J-Hawks' did their damage The win boosted Jefferson to 3-5 methodically. Quarterback Steve Wise, who hit on 10 of 18 passes for 113 yards, engineered a 54-yard, nine-play scoring drive in the first quarter.

Robinson, who also started at fullback, ran up the middle 22 yards with 3:25 left in the first quarter to make it 6-0. Wise faltered but once

The next series he threw a pass into the arms of Kennedy's Joe Fergus, who raced untouched 38 vards to score with 1:25 left in the first quarter. Kevin Mote's kick gave Kennedy a 7-6 lead, but it was a short celebration.

Mauch quits Angels

Gene

Mauch

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) - After 23 years of frustration as a majorleague manager, the most recent and most bitter of them with California, Gene Mauch decided Friday not to return to the Angels next season.

A spokesman said Angels owner Gene Autry Wednesday offered Mauch the job again for 1983. The 56-year-old manager considered it for two days, then turned it down.

"He notified the club this morning of his preference not to return next season," Tim Mead said. "The Angels reluctantly accepted his decision."

Mauch managed the Angels for two seasons, and in his first year the club finished fifth in the American League West. But this year Mauch's powerful Angels captured the AL West title and swept the first two games from Milwaukee in the AL Championship series.

Then the roof caved in. Mauch, criticized throughout the season for over-managing and for his use of "little ball" - bunting, stealing and sacrificing - while blessed with the enormous power of players like Reggie Jackson, Don Baylor, Fred Lynn, Brian Downing, Doug De-Cinces and Bobby Grich, was loudly critcized by the media, fans, Autry and even some of his players when California dropped the next three in a row, sending the Angels home and the Brewers to the World Series. It was the first time in the 13year history of the major-league playoffs that a team won the first two games and then lost a championship series. And the 75-year-old Autry, who invested several million dollars during the off-season to acquire Jackson, DeCinces and others and repeatedly said his one goal was the World Series, was devas-

Wednesday, Mauch hinted to Buzzie Bavasi, the Angels' executive vice president, that he might have already made up his mind about 1983 after hearing the criticism and doubts that surfaced after the Angels were ousted by the Brewers.

"He's annoyed and disappointed by the things that have been said by management and the players," Bavasi said after meeting with Mauch.

"He wanted to tell me how he felt about coming back, but I told him I didn't want to hear it yet, that we should both take another 72 hours to think about it.'

And 72 hours later, the Angels announced that Mauch had called it

Mauch's latest major-league season as a manager ended much the same way the other 22 did - in

His record of 22 years without winning a title before this year is the all-time major-league futility mark

University of Iowa athletic offithat even in the midst of today's hard-luck economy, figures released Friday show loyal Hawkeye fans are privately donating money in record amounts.

"Obviously the financial support for Iowa athletics has never been greater," said Bud Callahan, director of men's athletic fund raising.

University officials said during the giving year from last September through August, Hawkeye fans gave $2.6 million to the University cials are finding it hard to believe Foundation and to the I-Club Scholarship Fund - a private corporation managed by volunteers. It marked the first time Iowa's intercollegiate athletic program has raised $2 million in private dona-

> The latest total also represents a 53 percent increase over the $1.9 million in private donations that led the Big Ten last year. The Hawkeye Fund for sports programs topped the one million mark for the first ahead of last year's pace, said Mal time in 1980.

"This ($2.6 million) is a little higher than we had anticipated," Callahan said. "The record level of support is especially significant because it doesn't include gifts or pledges to the ($17 million) Hawkeye Arena-Recreation campaign."

In comparison, Iowa State University of the Big Eight Conference to do" with the increase in private netted about $900,000 in gifts last support, but "it's difficult to meayear. Donations totals the first nine months of this year were running

King, the high-scoring forward for the Golden State Warriors, was traded to the New York Knicks for guard Michael Ray Richardson Friby Flo Pepmeyer day, the National Basketball Association teams announced.

King — who recently signed an Mike Young carries 171 average with the offer sheet with the Knicks Toppers at Lancer averaged 23.2 points per game last Lanes and was really season, eighth-best in the NBA. Richardson, entering his fifth season Diana Finley (159) in the league, averaged a team- and career-high 17.9 points per game was sharp with the Ladies Allied Industrial last year.

"We are very pleased to have a successful resolution in our pursuit of Bernard King, who is one of the premier players in the league," said Dave DeBusschere, the Knicks' director of basketball operations. "We are sorry to lose a player of Michael's caliber, but the opportunity to obtain Bernard presented itself and we couldn't pass it up." Knicks Coach Hubie Brown said

The J-Hawks took the lead for good with 9:35 to play in the first half, as Wise engineered an eightplay, 70-yard scoring march that consumed 31/2 minutes. The big lift came when Wise fired a 36-yard pass to a leaping Al Schmitz, who was speared by Kennedy safety Noel Michael. The resulting penalty put the ball at the Cougar 12-yard line, with Schmitz running the final yard to the end zone five plays later. Wise passed to tight end Dana Benson for the conversion.

Jefferson was playing without No. 2 Valley receiver, senior tight end Bob Driscoll, who sprained his ankle in practice Tuesday. But, the J-Hawks compensated.

Kennedy could do little to stop Jefferson's running attack, with Wise mixing up the Cougar defense with Robinson (37 yards), Dave Bishop (69) and Schmitz (51). "We audible-lized at the line of scrimmage 30 to 40 percent for this game," said Calloway. "Kennedy's defense moves so much that you're forced to do that. You can't guess against them." The J-Hawks added an insurance ouchdown after Kennedy's Tim Batterson fumbled on the 19 yard line with 4:44 left in the third quarter. Wise fired an 11-yard pass to Todd Cook, then Bishop crashed the final eight yards with 4:07 to go. Julio Veron's kick provided the final
