The whole truth?

• We'll fight vigorously for the truth of the printed word — we'd better! — but the other day it struck us you should be awfully skeptical of what's printed on your Iowa football tickets these days.

No, we don't mean the coupon on the back of the ticket that will enable you to buy a fast-food hamburger for 25 cents. That's a solid offer.

For one thing, the starting times listed for the games don't mean much. You'll notice the ticket for Saturday's Iowa-Ohio State game says it will start at 1:05 p.m. You know that's incorrect, because CBS has chosen this game for TV and summarily ordered the kickoff changed to 2:48 p.m. to fit into its broadcast schedule.

Iowa is no different from other football-playing universities. Iowa State promptly agreed to delay the start of its game against the Hawkeyes two weeks ago because ABC had agreed to show it on regional TV.

Wave one of those boxcar checks that TV offers and almost any athletic department will accept, saying, "If you want to start the game at 4 a.m., just say the word, and we'll get it out of the way before the boys go pheasant-hunting."

You can't blame them. Money makes the football world go 'round, and football pays the way for most of the other sports — women's as well as men's — in the university program. What's more, Iowa and Iowa State don't get to keep the whole TV wad; they have to share it with the other members of their conferences.

The other thing that means absolutely nothing on your football ticket is the price. Oh, it says the actual cost is $12, but that's not true, either.

It's a good thing scalping is not prohibited by Iowa law, because those who buy tickets from university athletic departments should be entitled to collect lots more than the $12 list price.

You think not? Then you don't realize the "lucky" people who get to buy tickets have to ante considerable sums just for the privilege. What's more, usually they have had to do it over a period of many years to obtain that priority.

About the cheapest organization an Iowa ticket-buyer can belong to is the I Club. Minimum dues are $25 a year. However, those who get tickets in better locations must join the Bronze Hawks, Silver Hawks, Gold Hawks or Presidents Club, and those memberships cost anywhere from several hundred to several thousand dollars.

Sure, they also get parking privileges and a subscription to "Hawk Talk," but being a ticket-buyer at Iowa in either football or basketball is really an expensive status symbol.

Next time you get the chance to buy a Hawkeye ticket for the price listed on the ticket, well, remember the losing years when you could walk up to the box office at noon Saturday and say, "Gimme two on the 30."

• Thomas Wolfe, the late novelist, wrote that "you can't go home again." Thomas Wolfe, the living manager of the Lake MacBride Golf Club, said you can.

Wolfe reported Rich Bleakley, Lake MacBride Club member and a teacher at Cedar Rapids Washington High, certainly did handle the "home hole" there twice last Sunday, very handsily. The ninth hole is 485 yards long, par five. Rich scored an eagle-three on his first round, a double-eagle two on his second tour. He played with his son, Rob, and Dwayne and Doug French.

A BATTLE OF 2 QBs

'Twins' Long, Tomczak meet for first time on Saturday

By Brian Chapman
Gazette sportswriter

Their careers, at one time slowly bouncing along a rocky road but now purring smoothly down a super highway, have been surprisingly similar.

Iowa quarterback Chuck Long and his Ohio State counterpart, Mike Tomczak, are both products of suburban Chicago high school football.

Both played sparingly as college freshmen. Both got off to a rough beginning as sophomores when handed the reins of the Hawkeye and Buckeye offensive units. And both, recovering from early stumbles, found their balance and led the Hawks and Bucks to sparkling seasons.

The Long-led Hawkeyes have won eight of their last 10 games, including their first two this fall, and currently rank seventh in the Associated Press poll. The Tomczak-led Buckeyes have won nine games in a row, including their first two games this fall, and stand third in AP ratings.

There's more. Long and Tomczak both rank among the NCAA's top six in total offense and passing efficiency.

It would seem the parallels between these two never stop. Even their coaches get into the act.

Buckeye mentor Earle Bruce, commenting on what he regarded as Tomczak's best assets, mentioned his quarterback's "leadership and his ability to lead our team to victories."

Iowa Coach Hayden Fry's remarks were little different. "He's the most unflappable guy I've ever seen," said Fry. "The whole time he's out there his expression never changes. He'll get knocked for three flips, then get up and have the same expression. Nothing bothers him."

Long or Tomczak seldom commit the serious error, the crucial mistake that games turn on. Both are cool and poised. Saturday's huge Big Ten clash between Iowa and Ohio State in Iowa City is unlikely to turn on the misdeeds of either.

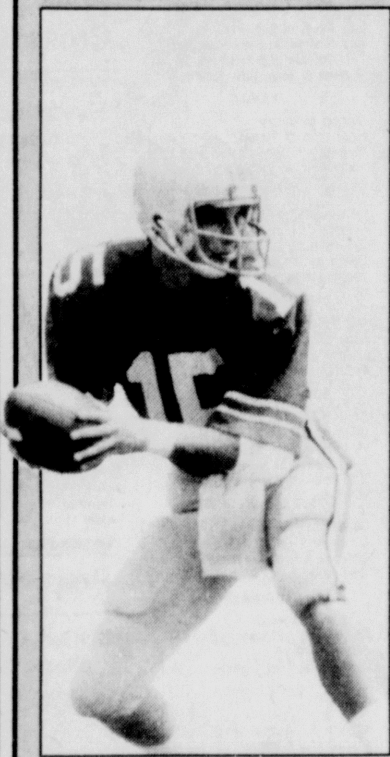

They are supreme quarterbacks (both are juniors, by the way), and rate among the nation's very finest.

If they are now golden boys, living portraits of the All-American youth, it is because they have exceeded what was expected of them.

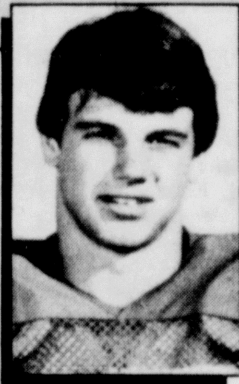

Although Long was an all-area player and was voted the top player in the tough DuPage Valley Conference, he was chased by few college recruiters. Tomczak's story differs a bit here. He was first-team all-state on virtually every all-state poll. Yet, he too had his ability questioned.

"Even though Tomczak was our all-state Player-of-the-Year, a lot of people thought he might not really be that good," said Taylor Bell of the Chicago Sun-Times. "He fumbled around a

Nation tunes in to Iowa vs. OSU

By Don Doxsie
Gazette sportswriter

A few years ago, the networks wouldn't have considered an Iowa-Ohio State football game to be suitable for television, at least not for younger viewers who might be adversely affected by extreme violence.

The mere suggestion that Iowa had a chance to actually beat Ohio State would have drawn snickers.

But nobody is snickering at the Hawkeyes anymore. And the media are standing in line to turn the spotlight on one of the nation's up-and-coming college football programs.

Saturday's game between Iowa and Ohio State at Kinnick Stadium might receive more exposure nationwide than any other regular-season contest in recent Hawkeye history.

CBS-TV will televise the 2:48 p.m. game to almost two-thirds of the country. Sports Illustrated will have a writer and photographer on hand, and newspapermen will be converging on Iowa City from places like Chicago, Detroit, Minneapolis, Boston and Denver.

Plus there will be 66,000 screaming fans, the most ever in the 54-year-old edifice.

All because the Hawks have progressed to the point where there really are people out there who believe they can upend the Buckeyes. Not everyone, mind you. The Las Vegas oddsmakers still have Ohio State listed as a three-point favorite.

Earle Bruce

Impressed with Hawkeyes

But, from a historical perspective, the fact that the spread is only three is a landmark. Ohio State has beaten Iowa the last 16 times they've played, and the last 10 haven't been close. All were decided by 20 points or more.

Iowa last won in 1962 and last came close in 1968. The Buckeyes lead the overall series, 29-10-2.

But the Iowa and Ohio State units which will meet Saturday appear to be basically equal. They're both ranked in the top 10 (Ohio State third, Iowa seventh) and are similar in size, style and temperament.

"This is the one we've been waiting for," said Ohio State Coach Earle Bruce. "It is going to be a tremendous football game. We are going to have to buckle up our chin straps and be ready to play."

"Certainly I think we have a chance," said Iowa Coach Hayden Fry. "It should be a physical game because both teams have size. Both teams have outstanding quarterbacks and receivers. The game should have a little bit of everything a person would want to see in a football game."

If Ohio State has a major advantage, it's probably in its experience on defense. The Buckeyes have seven returning starters on that side of the line, including three defensive backs who may be candidates for post-season honors — Garcia Lane, Shaun Gayle and Kelvin Bell.

If Iowa has an edge (other than the obvious home field advantage), it's probably in its ability to launch the big play offensively. While Ohio State's longest running play of the season is 18 yards, the Hawks have 11 runs from scrimmage longer than that. They also have 10 pass completions exceeding 20 yards.

But, as Fry points out, that doesn't mean Ohio State doesn't have a potent offense.

"I think they're completely satisfied if they can get six, seven, eight yards a play," explained Fry. "Woody Hayes always wanted to get three yards a play but this team can six, seven and eight-yard you to death."

"Then they'll fake it to a back and throw it to the tight end, (John) Frank, who is probably the best tight end I've ever seen in college football."

Frank, who has 10 catches in the Buckeyes' first two games and 86 in his career, isn't the only star in the OSU offense. Quarterback Mike Tomczak leads the nation in passing after two games, tackle Bill Roberts is an All-America candidate, and Vaughn Broadnax, Keith Byars and Kelvin Lindsey are all solid backs.

Scoop Longshot sees a real barn-burner in Iowa City on Saturday. Page 4C.

"Ohio State not only beat a good football team in Oklahoma but they dominated," said Fry, referring to last week's 24-14 conquest of the Sooners. "They have a big, strong fullback (Broadnax) and an outstanding quarterback in Tomczak. It would be foolish to think you can stop them."

Of course, the Hawkeyes haven't been easy to stop this season either. They're currently ranked second in the nation in scoring (46.5 points per game) and total offense (561 yards per game). Quarterback Chuck Long is third in the country in passing and running back Owen Gill is fifth in rushing and tied for first in scoring.

Wahlert downs Kennedy

By Mark Dukes
Gazette assistant sports editor

Cedar Rapids Kennedy's inept offensive execution in the opponent's territory Thursday night was the fault of a guy who never played.

Or so Coach Al Stiers said.

The Cougars reached Dubuque Wahlert's 18, 28, 18, 5 and 10 yard lines without scoring, as the Golden Eagles dealt 10th-ranked Kennedy a 21-7 setback in Mississippi Valley Conference football at Kingston Stadium.

"I just did a very poor job of calling the plays, and I take full responsibility for it," said Stiers, the same man who so brilliantly directed Kennedy to a 3-0 start.

"Our quarterbacks call most of their own plays, but the way things were going I wanted to take some pressure off them. We simply didn't play well enough to win, not with all our mistakes."

This was further evidence that the Valley may be the state's most balanced league. Six of the eight teams already have lost a league game.

Iowa City High and Dubuque Hempstead both are 1-0 in league play, but City High faces defending Valley champ Cedar Rapids Washington tonight at Kingston. Both Kennedy and Wahlert are 3-1 overall and 2-1 in the Valley.

The statistics were closer than the score, as Wahlert ran 64 plays for 273 yards and Kennedy 60 plays for 237. But Kennedy's six turnovers — including five interceptions — to Wahlert's two were the difference.

"This was probably our most consistent effort of the year offensively and defensively," Wahlert Coach Dick Weitz said. "This game was close to what I envisioned us being. Kennedy came at us much like we expected, but we had the big plays when we needed them."

Colorado State limps into ISU

By Bob Denney

When Colorado State's football team left Ames three years ago, it left looking like survivors of a hurricane. Saturday afternoon the Rams of Fort Collins arrive looking like escapees from Beirut.

It's no laughing matter for Colorado State, however. The winless Rams (0-3) have suffered the highest number (18) of injuries to a major college football team in recent memory. The injury list includes eight starters lost for the year (5 defensive and 3 offensive), and 10 players who had figured highly in the depth charts sidelined indefinitely. And, reserve quarterback Mark Miller left school this week.

Despite the losses, Rams Coach Leon Fuller refuses to use excuses in preparation for facing the winless (0-2) Iowa State Cyclones in a 1:30 p.m. Parent's Day contest.

"Sure, things are tough," Fuller said. "We were thin going into the season, but we're even thinner now. I'm not trying to say our losses are the result of injuries. In football you have to overcome injuries, which are unfortunately a part of the game."

The Rams lost 69-0 to the Cyclones in their last meeting in 1980, and trail in the series, 3-1. Colorado State has dropped its last six games, and been outscored 99-13 this season.

The game marks the first of four consecutive home dates for Iowa State. The Cyclones haven't been decimated in their ranks, but have been knocked around (80-36) on the scoreboard. In addition, they have allowed 631 yards through the air. After facing passing artists Chuck Long of Iowa and Kurt Page of Vanderbilt, ISU figures to get another stiff air test from the Rams' Terry Nugent.

The 6-4, 218-pounder has completed 69 of 121 passes (57 percent) for 711 yards and one touchdown. A self-proclaimed disciple of Denver Broncos' passing whiz John Elway, Nugent studied the former All-American's style on film last summer in hopes of perfecting his own.

Nugent will face the ISU secondary, a classic scenario for the Cyclones' "Man of Steel," free safety George Walker. Walker leads the nation with three interceptions (all collected last week against Vanderbilt).

"Colorado State's football team is a lot like our's," said Cyclone Coach Jim Criner. "We are both young teams trying to gain some confidence. Their strength is in the passing game and in their front seven defensively. For us, we have to have success before you can believe in yourself. We need a win badly."

The fuel for a Cyclone victory should come from the arm of quarterback David Archer. The Cyclone running attack, under criticism after averaging only

Surging Phils sweep Expos, take 3-game lead in NL East

Associated Press

MONTREAL — For almost 10 minutes after the Philadelphia Phillies completed a two-night double-header sweep of the Montreal Expos Thursday, reporters were asked to wait outside the clubhouse.

Once inside, they found the place strangely silent. But that was simply the calm after the storm following 9-7 and 7-1 victories, which boosted Philadelphia's winning streak to seven games.

"You should have been here a few minutes earlier," said Phillies Manager Paul Owens. "It was bedlam.

"The players were rushing around shaking each other's hands and rubbing heads. I felt it was best to keep everyone out for a while until they had cooled down."

The Phillies had reason to celebrate after they increased their National League East lead over Pittsburgh to three games and moved four games ahead of the Expos. All three teams have nine games to play.

Rookie Charles Hudson fired a four-hitter and Len Matuszek drove in two runs to key the second-game victory.

Joe Lefebvre smacked a bases-loaded triple and Joe Morgan doubled three times to pace Philadelphia in the opener.

In the nightcap, the Phillies snapped a scoreless game in the fifth on successive singles by Greg Gross, Bo Diaz and Ivan DeJesus against starter Steve Rogers, 17-11. One out later, Morgan, who has 13 hits in his last 18 at-bats, singled to load the bases and Diaz scored as Matuszek grounded out.

Philadelphia added four runs in the seventh off Rogers. Matuszek, Mike Schmidt and Gary Matthews stroked RBI singles and another run scored on a throwing error by center fielder Andre Dawson.

The Phillies won the opener as Schmidt, DeJesus and Ozzie Virgil homered while Morgan went 3-for-4.

Tigers 5, Orioles 4

DETROIT — Lou Whitaker's fourth hit of the game, a two-out single in the 10th inning, drove in the winning run as Detroit defeated Baltimore.

The Tigers kept their flickering hopes alive in the American League East race, cutting Baltimore's lead to 7½ games. The Orioles' "magic number" for clinching the division title remained at three with 10 games to go.

Enos Cabell started the 10th with a single off Baltimore reliever Sammy Stewart, 9-4, and took second on a wild pitch. Stewart got Chet Lemon on a popup and walked Rick Leach before giving way to Dan Morogiello, the fifth Baltimore pitcher. Morogiello got pinch-hitter Lynn Jones on a pop foul before Whitaker cracked a single down the left field line to drive in the winning run.

Eddie Murray's 31st home run was a tremendous blow over the fence in dead center field over the 440-foot marker. With two outs in the Baltimore seventh, Murray blasted another mammoth shot — this one off the facing of the third deck in right.

Pirates 8, Cubs 2

CHICAGO — Johnny Ray drilled a triple, double and two singles and scored three runs to lead Pittsburgh to a victory over Chicago.

Major League Roundup

It marked the Pirates' first victory in Chicago after 10 straight losses, including eight this season.

The Cubs took a 1-0 lead in the second on a triple by Jody Davis and a single by Larry Bowa, but the Pirates went ahead to stay with four in the fifth.

With one out, Marvell Wynne doubled and scored on Ray's triple. Walks to Dave Parker and Jason Thompson filled the bases.

Mike Easler then grounded to second and when the Cubs failed to turn the double play, Ray scored the lead run. Tony Pena singled, scoring Parker, and Richie Hebner singled to score Easler.

The Cubs' second run came on an inside-the-park home run in the ninth inning by Ron Cey, his 23rd.

Cardinals 3, Mets 2

ST. LOUIS — Rookie Danny Cox pitched eight shutout innings, leading St. Louis to a triumph over New York.

Cox, 3-5, took a five-hitter into the ninth, but left after Darryl Strawberry led off with a single and scored on George Foster's double. Reliever Bruce Sutter allowed pinch hitter Keith Hernandez's RBI single before getting his 20th save.

Reds 6, Braves 4

ATLANTA — Dan Driessen's two-run homer in the sixth inning gave Cincinnati a triumph over slumping Atlanta and further damaged the Braves' pennant hopes.

Second-place Atlanta now trails Los Angeles, which was idle, by 4½ games in the National League West. The Braves, who have 11 games remaining, and Los Angeles, with 10 left, begin a three-game series tonight in Atlanta.

The Braves have won only two of their last nine games.

White Sox 3, Angels 2

ANAHEIM, Calif. — Tom Paciorek drove home Carlton Fisk from third with a groundout in the eighth inning to lift Chicago over California.

Jerry Koosman, 11-7, scattered six hits through seven innings to gain the victory with last-inning relief help from Juan Agosto, who picked up his seventh save.

Fisk singled with one out in the Chicago eighth and moved to third on a double by Harold Baines. After an intentional walk to Greg Walker, Fisk scored as Paciorek bounced into a force play.

Indians 9, Brewers 5

CLEVELAND — Pat Tabler doubled in two runs and Karl Pagel singled in another as Cleveland scored five times during a rain-delayed sixth inning to beat Milwaukee.

play of the game when Kris Kvach swept right end and raced 26 yards. Kvach's fifth touchdown and Barry Mercer's extra point gave the Cougars a 7-0 advantage.

But Wahlert, sparked offensively by the running of 5-foot-9 junior Brad Burgmeier, tied Kennedy after an exchange of punts.

Burgmeier, who finished with 102 yards on 19 carries, darted off tackle and rambled 17 yards to score. Roger McCarron, who later missed field goal tries of 41 and 39 yards, added the extra-point kick.

An 11-play, second-quarter drive was capped on a 4-yard scoring pass from Bob Kirschbaum to Mike Sullivan. That touchdown gave Wahlert a 13-7 halftime advantage.

Kennedy reached the Wahlert 18- and 28-yard lines late in the half, but those drives stalled on downs and an interception, respectively.

The drives were sparked by the receiving of Kennedy's 6-foot-5 tight end Jeff Hrubes. He finished with eight catches for 121 yards, all on short slant patterns which he turned into big gainers.

Wahlert padded the lead on its first possession of the second half, as Kirschbaum hit a wide-open John Desens for a 35-yard scoring play. Kirschbaum's pass to Sullivan made it 21-7 with 9:11 left in the third.

Both teams had just 77 total yards in the second half. But the Cougars had a minus-20 net yards in the third period, including a 28-yard loss when several players kicked a fumbled ball toward Kennedy's goal.

Four second-half interceptions doomed Kennedy, however, as the Cougars reached the Wahlert 18, 5 and 10 without scoring.

Four of Wahlert's five thefts came on passes intended for Hrubes from either Andy Beer or Larry Thomas.

Junior Jeff Kuddes was Kennedy's top rusher with 10 carries for 66 yards. Kuddes, who had 55 yards in the second half, entered when starting tailback Jeff Pavsek injured an ankle.

Kennedy will try to rebound against Dubuque Senior (2-1) next Friday night at Kingston.

Aussies force showdown for Cup

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Australia II forced an unprecedented seventh race for the America's Cup when it swamped Liberty by a record 3 minutes, 25 seconds Thursday, seriously jeopardizing the 132-year U.S. monopoly on sailing's oldest prize.

The decisive race, with sports' longest winning streak at stake, was postponed until Saturday on Rhode Island Sound when the Australians requested a lay day for today.

Thursday's victory, the worst defeat ever for an undamaged defender, was the second straight for the Aussies and skipper John Bertrand, who had been down 3-1 in the best-of-seven series just three days earlier.

Their three victories are the most ever by a foreign boat in 25 American defenses of the Cup, the only international sports trophy never to change hands.

Only once before, in 1920, has the series come down to the final race, and that was when it was a best-of-five competition. That year, the defending boat Resolute came back from an 0-2 deficit to win the last three races against Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock IV.

Liberty, crippled by a broken mast support in Wednesday's loss, had no such excuse this time.

Despite some last-minute sail changes, skipper Dennis Conner beat Bertrand to the start for the fifth time in six races but squandered that seven-second lead with puzzling tactics for the second straight day.

He sailed off to the right of the 24.3-mile course in search of a wind shift rather than engage the Aussies in a tacking duel. Bertrand, meanwhile, went the other way.

Conner, trying to become the first skipper since Harold S. Vanderbilt in the 1930s to successfully defend the Cup twice in a row, had done the same thing Wednesday.

It didn't work any better this time.

When the two boats converged more than halfway through the 4.5-mile first leg, Australia II was in front by about three boat lengths.

The lead was 2:29 at the first mark — the biggest of the series at that point — and it was obvious that only something catastrophic would give the Americans a victory.

Australia II, the seventh Aussie challenger since 12-meter racing began in 1958 and syndicate head Alan Bond's fourth try, crossed the finish line 3 hours, 31 minutes and 15 seconds after she started.

Thursday's margin means that Australia II's three victories have come by a combined 8 minutes, 26 seconds, Liberty's by 3 minutes, 26 seconds.

Good start for Nielsen at LaJet golf

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — Lon Nielsen of Cedar Rapids made a solid showing in the first round of the $350,000 LaJet Coors Classic PGA tournament Thursday, carding a 34-36—70, good enough to tie for third place.

Tied with Nielsen at 2-under par at the Fairway Oaks Golf Club were Lee Trevino, Wally Armstrong, Keith Fergus, Pat McGowan, Mick Soli and Mike Donald.

Andy Bean escaped the howling winds which ripped over the course without a bogey, shot a 5-under-par 67 and took a one-shot lead.

Bean, who has won at least once in each of the last six years but has yet to acquire a 1983 title, was the only man in the field who did not make at least one bogey in the difficult playing conditions.

The west Texas winds were 15-25 miles per hour with higher gusts, and produced some of the higher scores of the season. John Mahaffey, for example, struggled to an 81. Tom Kite took a 76 and defending title-holder Wayne Levi withdrew after shooting 79.

Rex Caldwell, four times a runner-up this season and still seeking the first victory of his nine-year tour career, holed a bunker shot for an eagle-3 on the 14th, saved par with 10-foot putts on both the 16th and 17th and birdied the 18th from 20 feet to take a position that has become so familiar to him this season — second.

Prairie honors Class of 1959; parade, football game today

Prairie High School will celebrate the 25th anniversary of its first graduating class this afternoon, beginning at 2 p.m. at the school grounds.

A parade is planned celebrating the 1959 class, according to school officials. The first Prairie superintendent, Sam Wylie of Des Moines, will be the honorary grand marshal. The school had its first graduating class in 1959, and its first football coach, Bob Purcell, will be recognized at halftime of tonight's 7:45 game against Cedar Rapids Regis. Purcell is currently a high school principal in St. Louis, Mo.

Among the other honored guests is one of three co-captains of 1959, Ken Gordon of Walford. Admission to the game is $2.50 for adults and $1.75 for students.

Jock Olson ousted in Iowa PGA semifinals

GALESBURG, Ill. — Kurt Kretchmann of Coal Valley, Ill., defeated Ottumwa's Bob Moreland, 7-and-6, to win the Iowa PGA match-play championship Thursday at Soangetaha Country Club.

Kretchmann beat Keokuk's Mel McIntyre in one semifinal, 1-up and 20 holes. Moreland defeated Cedar Rapids Country Club pro Jock Olson, 3-and-1, in the other semifinal.

55.5 yards so far, remains a question mark. Criner said this week, barring injuries, he expects his team to get up to a 150-yard average. Nevertheless, it is Archer whom the Cyclones will depend upon.

The senior from Soda Springs, Idaho, enjoyed his best day passing at ISU last week, completing 18 of 28 passes for 255 yards and three touchdowns. Flanker Tracy Henderson caught five passes for 123 yards and two TDs.

"We acted like we knew what we were doing when we got out on the field last week," Archer said. "I just got some protection. I was only sacked twice, and when I get time like that, I can deliver."

Archer said he won't be delivering, however, should the Cyclones get the ball and the lead late in the game. His passing on first down against Vanderbilt with 1:32 to go stifled a chance for victory.

"The pass was a screw-up on my part. They called for a sprint out and they said run," he said. "And, for some reason it didn't register to me or I didn't hear them. I don't remember them telling me to run. I should have known, being a senior, and should have gone ahead and kept the football. It probably would have won the ball game for us. I've definitely learned a big lesson. It was a hard one to learn at the cost of a ball game like that. I definitely won't be delivering in that situation again."

ISU leads the Big Eight in passing (a 239-yard average), and fullback Jason Jacobs and Henderson rank 2-3 in receiving. Archer is fourth in the league in passing efficiency with 32 completions in 54 attempts for 413 yards and three touchdowns. His average of 206.5 yards per game is tops in the league.

Archer is second in the conference in total offense, averaging 194.5 yards per outing. "I think our defense will be much more prepared. They really have learned a lot, and seeing us in practice for as much as we throw the football," Archer said. "They're going to be well ready for Terry Nugent of Colorado State."

CYCLONE NOTES: ISU tied a school record against Colorado State in 1980 with nine punt returns. Michael Wade, a senior now, had seven then.

Standing room only at ISU

AMES (AP) — All reserved seats for Iowa State's home football game with Colorado State on Saturday have been sold, ISU officials announced Thursday.

However, Ticket Manager Dick Mathias said about 3,000 standing room only tickets remain. Those tickets admit buyers to the grass hillside in the stadium.

The SRO tickets will be sold at the ISU ticket office in the Olsen Building today and at the ticket wagon north of the stadium on Saturday morning.

lot as a junior, but he took charge his senior year. He had the stats, and he played very well against some great teams.

"Long was quite similar, but no one expected him to go to Iowa. People were surprised a Big Ten school would want him. Everyone knew he had great leadership, brains, he was a take charge guy — all of that. But they questioned if he had the tools."

Tomczak, who directed Thornton Fractional North's (Calumet City) Wishbone offense, ran with the ball well. But he passed for more than 2,000 yards as a senior while playing for coach Ron Tomczak, his father.

It was his aerial artistry that opened eyes. On the other hand Long, who led Wheaton North to 23 wins in 24 games, passed for less than 800 yards as a senior, although he did hit 61 percent of his passes. North, loaded with fine running backs, employed a punishing ground attack most of the time.

"Chuck Long was an excellent athlete in a program not suited to showcase his talent," reflected the Chicago Tribune's Jerry Schnay, "while Tomczak starred in a program to do just that."

"We all knew Chuck was a good athlete, we just weren't sure how good he was."

Wheaton North Coach Jim Rexilius, however, never questioned Long's talent: "He could run the ball, throw the ball, run the option — do whatever we wanted him to do. What I remember about Chuck was his coolness on the field — I don't remember him fumbling the ball or throwing a bad pass."

Long's parents, Charlie and Joan Long, both Oklahoma University graduates, weren't unhappy with Rexilius' offensive tactics.

"Since he passed so seldom, he had to be more accurate," reasoned Joan Long. "Each pass had to count. He ran a lot, which toughened him. I read a quote by Fry where he said Chuck's running in high school helped him adjust to the Big Ten."

Long was born in Norman, Okla., home of Oklahoma U., and there was some talk he might like to go to school there. But the Sooners never came calling. Long visited Iowa in December, 1980, "and loved it instantly," according to his mother.

Tomczak visited Ohio State after he became disenchanted with Illinois. He, too, fell in love at first sight.

Regardless of the victor in Saturday's Hawkeye-Buckeye tangle, neither Long nor Tomczak can lose. They have undisputedly proven themselves to be winners.
