

Uncertain on Bush

· As we headed for today's Iowa-Ohio State football game at Columbus, Ohio, we didn't know whether Fred Bush would be able to start at fullback for the Hawkeyes.

Bush was injured in the fourth quarter of the 20-17 loss to Penn State. If Bush can't play, Coach Hayden Fry is expected to start Tim Sennott or move Owen Gill to fullback and give Ronnie Harmon his first start at running back.

Before the season, Fry said, "I'll guaran-dang-tee you Gill and Harmon will be used in the same backfield." They played together several times last Saturday.

The 6-1, 229-pound Bush is from Manasquan, N.J., one of many Easterners rounded up by Iowa assistant coach Bernie Wyatt.

He is a fourth-year player who can play again in 1985 because he red-shirted as a freshman (1981). You won't find many players this humble. No beating around this Bush in assessing his own play.

"I know I've got a great big pair of shoes to fill in taking over for Norm Granger," Bush told us, "but I love the challenge.

"I think my blocking and passreceiving are adequate for a fullback, but the spot I really have to improve is ball-carrying. I can't pop out of there the way Norm could on those quick openers. And couldn't he run in the open, too?

"Norm and I are close friends, and I'm thrilled that he was able to make the Dallas Cowboys roster this year. He'll be a fine pro, too." In the first two games, Bush carried eight times for 44 yards, an average of 4.3. His longest was 13 yards against Penn State.

Paulsen believes the first run, in September 1982, was the first of its kind. He has heard of six others since then. He moved the date back to "October's bright blue weather" this time so runners and dogs would have time to train.

000 • Now that the dust is settling on the USA Wrestling's official censure of Iowa's Dan Gable, let's assess the damage, if any.

It will, of course, have zero effect on his coaching status at Iowa. He is still the most respected wrestling coach in the country, if not of the western world.

The censure doesn't even mean that Gable can never coach U.S. wrestlers in Olympic or international competition again. In fact, he has said he would be willing to coach the Olympic team again in 1988 if needed.

Probably the worst effect would be on Gable's pride. That is balanced by the fact that many wrestling people have rallied to Gable's defense.

Finally, even his critics will have to admit at least Gable picked a good man to tesify for in the legal maneuverings. The courts awarded Randy Lewis, who wrestled for Gable at Iowa, the right to compete at 62 kilograms (136.5 pounds) in the Olympics. All he did was sweep his five Olympic bouts, only one of which went full distance.

Maybe Oklahoma State's Lee Roy Smith could have won the gold in Lewis' place, but we doubt he could have been more impressive. 0 0 0

Harbert won both bets. Using a 4-iron, and twice playing good shots out of greenside bunkers, he shot 74 and finished the 6,732-yard course in 1:58.

Slumping Cubs drop 5th in row

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Chicago is yet to clinch the National League Eastern Division title, but the Cubs are already being treated as champions by their opponents.

Cedar Rapids/Saturday, September 22, 1984

Call it sudden victory for Cedar Rapids Washington's Warriors Friday night.

Kennedy's Cougars, who second-year coach Al Stiers said "probably weren't given a nickel's chance of winning" prior to kickoff, forced a 7-7 stalemate with Washington in regulation time. URBANDALE - Unranked Urbandale upset top-ranked Cedar Rapids Regis, 29-7, in a Class 3A prep football matchup Friday night.

Regis had a first down at the Urbandale 3 with 59 seconds left in the half, but an Urbandale interception in the end zone ended the threat.

"I think that was the key point in the ballgame," said Urbandale Coach Dennis Frerich. "It killed their chance to score and gave us momentum going into halftime."
Urbandale built its lead to 23-0 in

ISU tailback Watson hurt

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) Iowa State tailback Al Watson apparently has broken his leg and will be out for at least three weeks.

A television station reported Friday that Iowa State Coach Jim Criner was aware of the injury Monday but kept the information under wraps. Details on how or when Watson broke his leg were not available Friday.

Richard Hanson will be backup to Don Poprilo at tailback and Tommy Davis at fullback.

"The party's over." Willie Nelson and Don Meredith have sung it and Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne said it after his No. 1ranked Cornhuskers beat up on

The game will be broadcast by KGAN-Channel 2 at 2:30 p.m.

"UCLA will be the test," says linebacker Mark Daum. "We'll be playing UCLA in their backyard and in front of their people, so it should tell us and some other people just how good we really are.'

The party could be over, too, for second-ranked Clemson, also 2-0 after hammering Appalachian State 40-7 and Virginia 55-0. The Tigers don't have to travel as far as Nebraska -- barely an hour or so down the road to tangle with No. 20

Martina snaps Chris' record

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) - Martina Navratilova finally completed a rain-delayed 6-1, 6-2 thrashing of outmatched Melissa Brown on Friday to stretch her winning streak to a record-breaking 56 matches.

With the victory in a first-round match at the Lynda Carter-Maybelline Tennis Classic, Navratilova erased the 10-year-old mark set by Chris Evert Lloyd.

The rain, which had forced the match to be moved back from Wednesday night to Thursday afternoon, and then suspended play at 4-1 in the first set Thursday, caused more problems than Brown, a 16year-old high school junior from Scarsdale, N.Y.

"It was tough, but it was fun," a relieved Navratilova said at her post-match news conference. "That was what I've been waiting all that "I never thought it would be broken when (Lloyd) set it back in 1974," she said. "I got so close in January (when her previous longest streak of 54 ended) that I didn't think I'd ever get another chance. 'You have to have luck .'

Lawrence has won 24 of its last 26 conference games.

"WE WENT back to basics this week," said Cornell defensive coordinator Steve Miller. "We've tried to find players who are ready to play." Miller echoed head coach Jerry

Clark's observation that "we played flat" against Wartburg. "We went through the motions,"

Clark said. "After we beat a bigger Culver-Stockton team (34-19), we thought we could stay close with Wartburg. They (Wartburg) were not only bigger, they were quick. And we were not mentally ready."

Miller called it "far and away the poorest defensive game we have played in the two-plus years I've been handling the defense."

Acknowledging that "there was considerable significance" in the fact that Cornell did not name a defensive player-of-the-week after the Wartburg game, Miller indicated that the Rams will make three or four changes in their defensive alignment for Ripon.

He said sophomore tackle Lee Stoveall was "one of the few defensive players who showed some signs of life. He played well."

Miller also reported that red-shirt senior noseguard Warren Braun, an all-conference performer in 1982, is expected to see "spot" action for the Rams today. He has been sidelined by injuries thus far.

Ripon lost heavily by graduation from a team that was a disappointment last season, and has been beaten by UW-Oshkosh (21-7) and Central of Iowa (44-0).

"Those are two pretty good football teams," Miller said. "Ripon will be hungry. But we should be ready to play for what our season is all about (the conference champion-
