Upper lowa's upward quest

his is an important day for college football teams across the state.

Iowa State hosts Northern Iowa, which obviously is a biggie for both teams. And just about every small-college team opens the season. Coe and Cornell face season-opening challenges from Iowa Conference squads. Luther has its annual nonconference battle with a fellow group of Norse from St. Olaf.

Then there is Upper Iowa. Upper Iowa and football go together like Steinbrenner and Winfield, Donald and Ivana, Andre Agassi and good taste in clothing. As birds, peacocks are colorful. As football teams, the Peacocks have been dreary. UIU hasn't had a winning football season since 1966. The last four-win year was 1978. The number of lopsided defeats absorbed by the Peacocks is almost as large as the national

So tonight Upper Iowa embarks on another hopeless football odyssey that begins with a game at North Central College in Naperville, Ill. Or is it so hopeless? That light at the end of the tunnel might just be something better than an oncoming

"WE HAD A heck of a recruiting year," said second-year UIU head coach Al Fischer. "We have 45 new kids, plus 30 back from Ah, last year. The Peacocks were 0-10 and allowed 47 points per game. Fischer may have wondered what he got himself into after leaving a coaching job at a high school in Plano, Texas, to come to Fayette.

"It crossed my mind," he said. "But I thought we were competitive the last five games. That's our big goal this year, to be competitive for four quarters.

That may not sound like a king-size objective, but when you come off an 0-10 season, it's a

"Our eventual goal," Fischer said, "is to be competitive with teams like Central and Simpson." Those two Iowa Conference clubs competed in the NCAA Division III playoffs last year. Central is a juggernaut.

'The big thing this year is that we've got six full-time football coaches, people who coach other sports here and are always here." Fischer said. "Last year I had three student-assistants and two part-time high school

When James Rocheleau became Upper Iowa's president in 1984, the school appeared to be dying. On-campus enrollment was only 350 that year. It was 435 last year, is now 520, and is expected to be 600 next fall.

"The president had to get the university on its feet with enrollment first," Fischer said. "Then you can build up the extracurricular activities. That's what he's done. It's not just athletics, but music and band, too.

Fischer played football at Iowa from 1959-1962. He was an assistant coach on the 1964 UIU squad that went 8-1 and shared the Iowa Conference title. He coached high school ball in Michigan for several years, and was an assistant coach in Plano for nine years. He sought a head coaching job, and when Upper Iowa's position opened, Fischer returned. "Last fall was the toughest I ever had," Fischer said, "and this is my 28th year in coach-

But Fischer and his assistants brought in players and players. Three junior college players and a transfer from Northwestern Oklahoma State accompanied a few dozen freshmen, many of whom come from eastern Iowa. Eight have arrived from Florida, seven from Michigan, four from the Dallas area.

"It's a pretty big cultural shock to come here from Dallas," Fischer said, "but Division III schools are few and far between in Texas. 'One thing about small schools is that they keep track of their kids, and the kids keep track of each other. The teacher-student ratio here is 1 to 15. If the Peacocks go, say, 1-9 this year, remember this: You have to crawl before you strut.

UNI will try to give ISU more than a scare

Northern Iowa pays little attention to what ought to happen when it visits Big 8 Conference stadiums to play football.

Besides whipping Kansas State three straight times, the Division I-AA Panthers have put major scares into Iowa State in their last two trips to Ames.

In 1988, Iowa State had to rally for a 20-17 win. In 1987, Iowa State came back from a 38-17 third quarter deficit to win 39-38 with an onside kick and Jeff Shudak's field goal in the final 21/2 minutes. "I'm not sure the best team won in those two games," Iowa State Coach Jim Walden said. "The team that just kind of hung on won.'

Northern Iowa visits Iowa State again today. Again, few believe the 1 p.m. game should be close. Again, it might.

If Iowa State doesn't play up to form, the Panthers might again make a game of it.

Coach Terry Allen's squad, after all, displayed big play capability on offense and a stubborn defense in last week's 30-9 win over-Southern Illinois.

Iowa State is just opening the season, so early kinks wouldn't be totally surprising.

Though the Cyclones are expected to field a powerful offense, Chris Pedersen debuts at as UNI's quarterback and struggled early, missing on his first six passes.

But Johnson came back to pass for 397 yards. Pedersen will be under similar pres-

'We're not expected to win," Allen said. "We're just going to go down and have some fun with it and try to make it a learning experience.' Johnson and company might test Iowa State's young defense. Last week he had a 62yard touchdown pass to tight end Chris Nuss, a 71-yarder to split end Richard Wellbrock and a 56yarder to fullback Mike Schulte of Cedar Rapids.

'The No. 1 nemesis Terry Allen of any defensive team, the very first thing that goes on your board, is eliminate big plays," Walden said. "He completed 12 passes for 400 yards, man. That's brutal. That's 33 yards a completion and you don't want to do that.'

Both defenses, it appears, will be tested. Northern Iowa must figure out a way to stop running back Blaise Bryant.

"He's a great back, there's no question Last week, Jay Johnson made his first start about that." Allen said. "He's a legitimate Heisman Trophy candidate. We've never had the opportunity here to play against a person of that ability.

Chicago Cubs 3330 Race Lines

'Last week, we had our defense on the field 22 minutes in the first half. We can't have that situation this week or, hell, Blaise might have 200 yards.'

Allen would like to see his team control the ball more, but recognizes big plays as an important part of the Panther arsenal.

"We have some weapons who give us the opportunity to be a big play team," he said. "We have some very fast wide receivers and some backs who can catch the ball.

Jim Walden

"We're not going to shy away from attempting the big play but to become a better football team, we have to become more consistent rushing the ball. With Bryant, a strong offensive line and a good group of receivers, Allen says Iowa State's offense will be tough to handle. "They've got a very, very experienced offense," Allen said. "Not only do they have

Warriors win penalty fest vs. West

It was that, but just barely. The Warriors rushed for 166 yards for the game - 136 in the second half and totaled only 22 through the air. West, which was penalized seven times for 50 yards itself, was equally ineffective, totaling 142 yards on the ground and just 50 via the pass.

"I don't know what to say," said West Coach Dan Dickel, whose team hasn't won in twoplus seasons and is 0-2 so far this year. "We have some kids who play hard but they don't know how to make the big play yet."

As an example, the Trojans threatened to take a 6-0 lead when Nile Smith picked-off an early first quarter pass thrown by the Warrior quarterback Derek Fulton and returned it 19 yards to the Washington 47.

Five plays later — including a pretty 31-yard pass from Brad Skriver to Chris Beemer — the Trojans were first-and-goal on the Warrior 6-yard-line.

The next play, Skriver was intercepted by Washington's Jason Merta who returned it 68 yards to the Trojan 32. Four plays later, Jason Black-

"She made quite a hit in training camp," said Anzivino. "Our coaches were very, very impressed with her. They say she's really a fire ball.

"They have really been high on her because of her personal-

Graf, Sabatini meet for Open title today

NEW YORK (AP) - Steffi Graf, back to her old tricks, and Gabriela Sabatini, showing off some new ones in an acrobatic extravaganza, set up a clash in the final of the U.S. Open.

Graf, the two-time defending U.S. Open champion, delivered a crushing one-two combination, knocking out Arantxa Sanchez Vicario, 6-1, 6-2, in 54 minutes Friday to reach the final for the fourth straight year.

Sabatini, unveiling a new and formidable net attack, had to work for 2 hours, 43 minutes before subduing American teen Mary Joe Fernandez, 7-5, 5-7, 6-3.

The title match will be televised by CBS at 10 a.m. (Iowa time).

Sabatini put together a string of brilliant backhand drop volleys to break Fernandez in the final two games. Leaping almost horizontally to the ground, spinning through the air and tumbling fearlessly on the hard court, Sabatini put the match away then said she's ready to go after Graf.

"Yes, I think I'm ready to win," said Sabatini, a 20-year-old Argentine who lost to Graf in the finals here two years and is still looking for her first Grand Slam victory. "I really wanted to do well in this tournament. I showed it in this match. I showed it in all my matches, and I'll show it tomorrow. I think I'm ready to beat Steffi, I'll have to start right Jason Verduzco will quarterback the Illini. He will be backed by Jeff Kinney.

'We have given our passing game the most attention," said Illini Coach John Mackovic. "Of all our positions, we have the least experience at quarterback."

Illinois' ground game will be led by Howard Griffith, who rushed for 747 yards last season but also caught 45 passes for another 340 yards.

John Cooper is anxious to get started at Ohio State. The Buckeyes return an offense that was tops in rushing, scoring and total offense a year ago.

'We'd better be improved on defense," said Cooper, who considers the game against Texas Tech a tossup. "We don't know about them, they don't know about us.' said Cooper.

The oddsmakers rate Ohio State a 10-point favorite.

The California-Wisconsin game is a big one in the sense that Barry Alvarez will be making his head-coaching debut with the Badgers.

Alvarez will go to a more diversified offense that will be led by quarterback Tony Lowery.

"This is an important game for the staff and the team," said Alvarez. "It will be on national television (ESPN) and a lot of people will establish their opinions on the team. It's an important game but we're not going to put the season on it."

Rams will be without senior defensive back Jeff Sharpe (C.R. Jefferson) and senior offensive guard Steve Rittgers (Linn-Mar), both disabled by bad backs.

Sharpe's vertebra problem could sideline him for the season. A three-year starter at cornerback, he was also slated to start at flanker today.

Explained third-year Rams Coach Steve Miller, "We needed people who can catch and run. Jeff fits the bill. He's also our best defensive back."

That was before Sharpe found he has a spinal condition that could produce paralysis.

Although Rittgers won't be able to play guard, where he was all-league a couple of seasons ago,

Oklahoma returns to TV in contest against UCLA

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — If he had his choice between getting kept off television or out of bowl games, give Gary Gibbs the bowl ban any day.

As a first-year head coach at Oklahoma last season, Gibbs knew both. Those were just two of the NCAA penalties levied on the program he inherited from Barry Switzer.

"I think not getting to be on television probably had the most demoralizing effect on the players," said Gibbs. "As far as keeping them motivated and keeping their spirits up after a loss, that was a major factor.'

But not anymore. Today at UCLA, the Sooners return to the tube. The bowl ban remains in effect another year. But finally, Sooner fans can see their team on television again.

'We're excited about the chance to play on national TV and in the Rose Bowl," Gibbs said. "But opening up against this kind of team, we've been very focused throughout the fall practice. I could pick somebody I'd rather play in this first

The Sooners, No. 23 as they open their season, draw the highest-rated team among Big 8 opponents. The Bruins are No. 19.

But the opponent with the least-enviable assignment may be Northern Illinois. The Huskies are at Lincoln to do battle with Nebraska, which beat Baylor 13-0 last week and then dropped from No. 7

After fighting so hard to prevail over a worthwhile opponent, one expects to gain esteem, not lose it. The Huskers were perplexed, and more than mildly miffed. Northern Illinois, a 48-17 victim in Lincoln a year, could pick a better time to visit.

'People must not have liked what they saw of us." said Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne, the dean of Big 8 coaches. "I thought it was a great football game. Apparently, a lot of people didn't think Baylor was much good. I think they're pretty good. It'll be interesting to see how well they do this week against Arizona State.'

Of even more interest to Osborne, however, will be what happens to the rest of the Big 8 this weekend, the first full Saturday of action involving Big 8 teams. Iowa State, Kansas State, Missouri and Oklahoma all begin their season today.

Iowa State is home against Northern Iowa, Kansas State hosts Western Illinois in a night game and Missouri hosts TCU.

No. 6 Colorado, after tying Tennessee in its opener on Aug. 26, was at home Thursday night and slipped past Stanford 21-17. Kansas, which got started last week by losing 59-10 to nationally ranked Virginia, is home against Oregon State. And Oklahoma State, a 10-3 winner over Tulsa last week, is at Florida.

In games where odds were quoted, Missouri was a 3-point favorite over TCU, Oregon State was a 9point road favorite over Kansas, UCLA was one point better than the Sooners, and Florida was a 16point nod over Oklahoma State.

Northern Illinois Coach Jerry Pettibone was an assistant to Osborne from 1979-81, and knows how dangerous any Nebraska team can be, especially one whose sense of fair play has been aroused. Not only did Nebraska drop three spaces in the poll, they came within a few seconds of failing to score a touchdown.

BUT IF OSBORNE needs more fuel to stoke his team's competitive fires, he can talk about the tense first half against Northern Illinois last year. Five turnovers resulted in a 17-17 halftime tie before the Huskers outscored the Huskies 31-0 in the second half. Northern Illinois went on to finish 9-2 with its only other loss at Louisiana Tech.

"They return 10 starters off last year's team, when I think they should have gone to a bowl,' Osborne said. "They should be better than they were last year. It's a game we probably should win, but we'll have to play well to do it.

"We came out the third quarter and did what I thought we could do. We scored, we ran the twopoint conversion. Our kids played their hearts out, and sure I'm disappointed, but our defense is a good defense. Our kids played clean and they're good sports. This program has come so far in four years. . . . I'll take

The Lions scrapped their way to a 7-6 halftime advantage, despite a fumble apiece by Mulherin and Maloy deep in Cougar territory.

All the first-half scoring was packaged into a 65-second span. Gureno sped 56 yards to score with 1:10 left in the first quarter, but Chris Tanner's extra point attempt was far short of the

Walden said UNI's defense would not give ground easily. "Defensively, they're sound," Walden said. "They don't beat themselves on defense. "Our defense won the game for us," Allen said of the opener. "They kept Southern out of the end zone in the first half when we turned the ball over." Walden thinks the crowd, expected to approach 45,000, will see plenty of scoring.

"I think we'll both score touchdowns," he said. "I don't think either one's going to shut the other one out. I think both sides of the scoreboard will be used."

Iowa State fans will be anxious to see Pedersen perform and will look closeley at Chris Spencer, a
