Miami still selling self

IAMI — This is a city of odd marriages. Ferrari dealerships are a short walk from ramshackle apartments. Marinas littered with expensive speedboats are a splash from a disheveled man sleeping in a city park.

It's a city of Art Deco and crackhouses, of wealthy retirees and desperate poor, of fun, sun and 6,300 assaults with a deadly weapon last year.

Cubans mix with Anglos, who mix with African-Americans, Nicaraguans, Haitians and many transplanted Europeans.

And the city's largest university depends mainly on nonalumni to sustain its big-time athletic program.

Late Friday afternoon, the University of Miami Hurricanes went through a loose, light, highspirited practice on their campus field in suburban Coral Gables. The only sign of outside life came when the elevated trains of Miami's new billion-dollar Metrorail system passed by.

The Hurricanes have won three national football championships since 1983, and seemingly haven't been out of the Top 10 in eons, but the city of Miami doesn't revolve around

You drive around Miami, and you don't see Hurricane this and Hurricane that. Not that many UM students are from the immediate area. Not that many UM alums live in the immediate area. Not that many Hispanics, which make up about half Miami's population, care about the school or football.

"It's an apathetic town," Tom Evans, a member of the Hurricane Club's board of directors, said Friday in the school's athletic center on Hurricane Drive. 'You've got to win to get people's attention.'

The Hurricanes sold 24,532 season tickets in 1983, the year of their first national title. That number has ballooned to almost 58,000 - more than the neighboring NFL Dolphins for the first time — so UM football has caught on in a fairly big way. Still, were Miami coming off a 5-6 year like Iowa, there's no way the 'Canes would come close to the Hawkeyes' nearly 70,000 fans per home game.

"Obviously it's different here than being in a college town,' said Larry Wahl, UM associate athletic director for communications. "The support has become much greater in recent years. We've gone out to do some things to be more a part of the community. Our players are constantly making appearances in the schools here.

Most of the 5,000 Hurricane Club members and the team's ticket-buyers don't have an affiliation with the university They're simply college football

"I WOULD SAY 80 percent are non-UM graduates," Evans said. "They may be Notre Dame graduates or Iowa graduates, but they've moved here and Miami football is now their world of athletics.'

Even with a team that has an outside shot at a second straight national title, available tickets are usually plentiful. Tonight's Iowa-Miami game won't be a sellout. The only likely full house on Miami's six-game home schedule will be for archrival Florida State next Saturday.

The Hurricanes drew over 50,-000 fans just twice in six 1989 home games at the 75,500-seat Orange Bowl.

However, things used to be much worse, and are getting better all the time. The product, after all, is quite good.

Men's basketball is another story. After a decade without the sport, the UM brought basketball back in 1985. The Hurricanes play their home games in the 2year-old, 16,000-seat Miami Arena. Talk about seats being available on game day. "We have not been that successful," Wahl said. "We have 1,-800 season-tickets sold for basketball. Baseball is our secondbiggest sport here right now."

Glory or gloom waiting for lowa By Jim Ecker

- The Iowa Hawkeyes can recapture the glory of yesteryear in one fell swoop tonight by upending 10th-ranked Miami in the Orange Bowl. Few people give Iowa, a 23-point underdog, much of a chance against the 1989 national champs. Even U of I Coach Hayden Fry has been spreading gloom and doom all week.

But this is 1990, not 1989, and these Hurricanes have yet to prove themselves. Nor, for that matter, have the Hawkeyes. Miami lost to BYU, 28-21, in its opener and rallied to beat California, 52-24, in its second game. Iowa pummeled a weak Cincinnati ballclub, 63-10, then held off the injured Iowa State Cyclones, 45-35. The jury is still out on both of tonight's contestants, but there's a feeling neither team has played its best game yet. 'We didn't show all of our hand in our first two poker games," remarked Fry with a sneaky grin. Indeed, Fry buttoned down his offense ■ Game time: 7 p.m. (lowa time) in the first two games, letting "Thunderbolt and Lightfoot" - a.k.a. Nick Bell and Tony Stewart - run loose while Matt Rodgers rested his throwing arm.

The Hawkeyes have barely involved Sean Smith, their fastest wide receiver, and Mike Saunders, their most versatile offensive weapon, in the attack this year. Could Fry be saving them for tonight?

Kickoff is set for 7 p.m.

Iowa hopes to catch Miami thinking ahead. The Hurricanes host Florida State next Saturday in a big intrastate showdown that has national title implications. Miami said it won't happen, but what's to fear from Iowa when Florida State is on the horizon?

Plenty, apparently.

"Repeating as national champion is so far from our mind right now it's unbelievable," said Miami Coach Dennis Erickson.

Also unbelievable in some quarters is the prospect of an Iowa victory. But Fry enjoys the underdog role, and he's done a masterful job this week keeping the pressure off his team.

'We don't have a chance against Miami unless we improve 100 percent," he said. "We could play well in this ballgame and still get blown out of the tub.

But the Hawkeyes, a steady top-20 club for much of the 1980s, could take a giant stride back in that direction tonight after two sub-par years.

"If we could win, geez, we'd be right up there in the national rankings," said Rodgers. "We'd go on to have a great, great season, I'm sure.' That's what Hawkeye fans are hoping for. Iowa has another tough game next week, visiting

Michigan State. While the Hawk eyes have relied on the run this season. Miami has been its normal pass-happy self.

new age" at Cedar Rapids Kennedy. Indeed, Cougar teams of the past would have had difficulty overcoming Friday night's valiant upset bid by injury-plagued Washington at Kingston Stadium.

But, this Kennedy unit rallied for two fourth-quarter touchdowns to snap a 20-20 deadlock and down the Warriors, 36-20, in a Mississippi Valley Conference battle.

Washington suffered injuries to six starters in the hard-fought game, while Kennedy was challenged repeatedly by the surviving Warriors.

Unlikely hero Stone delivers for Red Sox

BOSTON (AP) - Jeff Stone, a journeyman outfielder who has spent most of the last 10 years in the minor leagues, never expected to get a chance to put the Boston Red Sox in first place.

In his first major-league at-bat this season, Stone drove in the winning run with a bases-loaded single in the ninth inning Friday night, lifting the Red Sox to a 7-6 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays.

'With all the fans hollering and stuff, it was a weird feeling," Stone said after his one-out single to right-center field catapulted the Red Sox into first place in the AL East.

The Red Sox, 9-2 against Toronto this season, took the opener of the crucial three-game series at Fenway Park and lead the division by one game with five games left for both teams. "I felt like 'The Natural' getting up there," said

Stone, 29, who was called up this month when rosters were expanded. "In this series, I didn't think I'd get up at all. The Red Sox bounced back against Toronto relief ace Tom Henke (2-3) after Junior Felix gave the division race. Stone, used only as a pinch-runner in seven previous Boston appearances, ran for Dwight Evans in the eighth and got a chance to hit after Mike Greenwell tied the score 6-6 with a basesloaded single.

"It's just one game," Toronto Manager Cito Gaston said. "It's tough to lose any time, but we still have two more games here.

Toronto, with Henke going for his 32nd save, went into the bottom of the ninth with a 6-5 lead. Jody Reed walked and went to second on a sacrifice before Wade Boggs walked.

ELLIS BURKS singled to load the bases before Mike Greenwell's single tied the score, with Boggs holding at third despite a bad throw to the plate by right fielder Felix.

Cyclones in dire need of win against Western Michigan

In many ways, today's game between Iowa State and Western Michigan is more important to the favored Cyclones.

Typically, teams in Western Michigan's situation have little to lose when traveling to bigger arenas like Cyclone Stadium. The Broncos (2-1) of the Mid-American Conference would love an upset, but Coach Al Molde says his team's game at Central Michigan in two weeks is more important to the Broncos.

Iowa State, meanwhile, badly needs a victory. The Cyclones are a disappointing 1-2 and have lost two straight games — 20-16 in a poor performance at Minnesota and 45-35 in an emotional, error-plagued game last week at Iowa.

Fuller, Conway team up for Marion

During halftime festivities of Marion's homecoming football game against South Tama Friday night, seniors Travis Fuller and Brent Conway were named their school's co-homecoming kings.

Jason Maloy ran for three touchdowns and figured in a fourth as top-ranked Linn-Mar hiked its record to 5-0 Friday night.

The Lions scored two fourth-quarter touchdowns to down Dubuque Senior, 28-13, and win their 20th straight homecoming game at Armstrong Field.

Maloy, a senior fullback and linebacker, gave Linn-Mar a 21-13 on a 3-yard scoring run with 6:51 left. Less than a minute later, he tipped a pass by Senior's Randy Weber into the hands of junior Casey Mulherin, who ran 29 yards for a touchdown.

Linn-Mar won despite losing three fumbles, including one on the opening kickoff. The Rams, one of the Mississippi Valley Conference's better teams despite a 2-3 record, took a quick 7-0 lead two plays later on Scott Brock's 3-yard run.

"If we don't learn from our mistakes then we're not going to develop into a good football team," Linn-Mar Coach Greg Purnell said. "We made enough mistakes that we could've been down 14 points."

Linn-Mar outgained Senior 378-131, but had only a 14-13 lead after three quarters. And the Rams blew two first-half scoring and failing on downs at the Lions' 2.

The Lions' defense made the difference in the second half, limiting Senior to seven rushing yards. The Rams' Mike Francois, the Valley's rushing leader with a 101-yard average, was limited to 37 yards on 15 carries. His six second-half carries netted only one vard.

"If you go back over the years, when we've been successful it's been because of good defense and an opportunistic offense, Purnell said. "We shut Senior down and that was the big difference.'

Linn-Mar tied the score, 7-7, with a 12play, 89-yard scoring drive. Maloy capped it on a 3-yard run with 9:10 left in the half, and Shane Hayler hit the first of his four extra-point kicks.

Speltz had five catches for 47 yards. Maloy's 38-yard kickoff return set up the drive which led to his third touchdown. Mick Mulherin had 136 all-purpose yards for the Lions, gaining 68 rushing and 68 receiving. He had 17 rushes and three Ryan Driscoll, Linn-Mar's standout junior quarterback, completed 10 of 17 passes for 152 yards. He increased his season passing total to 709 yards. Chad Rubenow caught five passes for 53 yards.

Benton had taken a 14-7 lead on Stodola's 1-yard sneak with 9:47 remaining. That capped a 15play, 69-yard drive and came two plays after Robert Kremer had crashed four yards to the Regis 1 on fourth-and-2. Regis marched right back but 'We totally dominated them up front," said Morgan. "The big difference was special teams and field position. That first punt return was very critical."

Morgan referred to Schimberg's 77-yard gallop, after taking a handoff on a reverse from Conley, that carried to the Benton 8 and set up the Royals' first score late in the opening quarter. Schimberg, who rushed for 237 yards in the Royals' 35-14 win over Marion last Saturday but was held to 82 by Benton, strolled in from four yards out with 2:21 left in the first quarter.

"That certainly gave us a lift," said Hauschildt of Schimberg's return. "It covered a lot of yards without having to play their defense."

Following an exchange of possessions, Benton engineered an 11-play, 60-yard march, Kremer crashing in from the 2 on thirdand-goal.

Regis' next game is Thursday against West Delaware at Kingston Stadium. Benton Community travels to No. 8 Waverly-Shell Rock next Friday.
