A scrimmage in September

hen Northern Illinois' football team was about to play Iowa in 1986, one marvelously insightful sportswriter termed the game

The Foregone Conclusion.' Iowa proceeded to mush the Huskies, 57-3.

Today the same two teams cross paths in Kinnick Stadium. Northern Illinois would have to better than it was in 1986 when it went 2-9. The Huskies have already won once this year, a 22-21 decision over the goliaths of Arkansas State.

Thus, there shall be no "Foregone Conclusion" label for today's encounter. That would be demeaning to a program that is learning to walk under new head coach Charlie Sadler.

Instead, today's game is "The Obvious Outcome.

Is there any point in trying to make a flamingo out of a turkey? Any team that loses 34-17 to Kansas State, no matter how improved K-State is alleged to be, shouldn't compete with the ninth-ranked team in the land.

Any team that needs a late field goal to ward off the behemoths from Arkansas State shouldn't challenge the ninthranked team in the land. Any team that opens its season with a 55-7 loss to Fresno State shouldn't pose a threat to the ninth-ranked team in the land.

Unless, of course, one of two things happen: The game is played in a nasty wind/rain combination or Iowa performs

The Huskies might do some wondrous things in the Sadler Era, but not quite yet. They are allowing 462 yards a game while gaining 288. They average 72 passing yards.

If this game is anything more than a glorified scrimmage for the Hawkeyes, they don't deserve their No. 9 ranking.

IOWA STATE, meanwhile seems to have its act together in time for its game at Rice this afternoon. The Cyclones have moved tailback Lamont Hill to wide receiver. They shifted backup quarterback Kevin Caldwell to running back. They moved defensive back Lester Ridley to running back. They've taken offensive tackle Lance Keller off the starting unit because Keller somehow found a way to gain 30 pounds since the end of August.

Best of all, Jim Walden inserted Bob Utter, who was going to be red-shirted and didn't appear in ISU's first three games, as the starting quarterback.

ISU President Martin Jischke will return punts against Oklahoma next Saturday, if the Sooners ever punt.

Had someone told you last year that Rice would ever be a 61/2-point favorite over the Cyclones, you would have had legal grounds to put that person in a home for wayward boys and girls.

Sure, Rice is 2-0, but the wins were against non-entities Tulane and Northwestern. Tulane amassed 435 yards against the Owls last week. If Tulane can, so can Iowa State. Right?

The Cyclone offense will be fine once the quarterback introduces himself to the running backs, the wide receivers meet the quarterback, and the offensive linemen learn to stop snacking between meals.

THERE IS ONE little game of importance out there that doesn't involve the Cyclones or Hawkeyes. Top-ranked Florida State is visiting No. 3 Michigan in the first official Game of the Year. This battle is of great concern to Iowa fans. Should the Wolverines win, they likely will be catapulted to No. 1. Next Saturday's Michigan-Iowa affair would then be subject to a mountain of hype and hysteria Florida State has a returning All-America cornerback, a potential All-America quarterback, two All-America candidates at linebacker, and other he-men. Michigan has at least four All-America types of its own.

Do you know what it will mean if Michigan wins?

Well, do you? It means a wave of hype and hysteria will roll this way. It's up to Florida State to stem it.

And it could get ugly. Danny Sheridan, the oddsmaker for USA Today, favors the Hawkeyes by 40 points.

But how good are the Hawks? Are they really the ninth-best team in the nation? Better than Penn State, Syracuse, Auburn, Florida and Ohio State?

"It seems crazy," said Iowa quarter-back Matt Rodgers. "We haven't really done that much this year yet. We haven't played any of the high-powered teams yet and still we're up there.'

Here's a quick recap of what's happened so far: The Hawks have jumped from 18th to 15th to 14th to 10th to ninth in the AP poll by beating Hawaii and

The Rainbows and Cyclones are not exactly Murderer's Row, by the way, and the Hawks haven't been pushed.

That's exactly what I told my football team," said Iowa Coach Hayden Fry, not sure himself if he's got a national power on his hands.

But wait till next week, when Iowa hosts third-ranked Michigan. The big, bad Wolves could be No. 1 if they whip the top-ranked Florida State Seminoles today.

That's the game Hawkeye fans crave: Iowa vs. Michigan.

Iowa vs. Northern Illinois is just an hors d'oeuvre, maybe even a gimme, but don't use that word around Fry

"Anytime in our life that we think we've got a gimme, any time in our life we think we're going to get something without having to earn it or work for it, that's when bad things happen," he said

Even against Northern Illinois?

"I tell you," said Fry. "I'm worried. I'm very concerned."

Maybe he doesn't know the Huskies are 1-7 against Top 25 teams since 1968. Maybe he doesn't know they're 1-14-1 against Big Ten clubs since 1971.

Maybe he doesn't know Northern Illinois ranks 105th in passing out of 106 Division I-A teams.

Maybe he forgot the Huskies got drilled by Fresno State, 55-7, three weeks ago, or that Bill Snyder's Kansas State club rolled up nearly 500 yards against them last Saturday.

Northern Illinois Coach Charlie Sadler knows. He said he's realistic about today's assignment.

His team has a chance to win, he said,

The Huskies need a big game from Adam Dach, who's rushed for 2,862 yards during his career; from Stacey McKinney, an option quarterback who passed for 178 yards last week; from Larry Wynn, who caught five passes for 109 yards against K-State; from their tailbacks, who are battered and bruised; and from Steve Henriksen, who makes 20 tackles a game.

If all those things happen — and if the Hawkeyes are thinking too much about Michigan — it could be exciting.

"Stranger things have happened," said

But it would be strange indeed, because the Hawkeyes are a top-10 team, right? 'As far as I'm concerned, we're going to be one of the best teams in the nation,' said Iowa cornerback Scott Plate.

"I think the potential is there," agreed Jason Olejniczak, who also roams the defensive backfield for the Hawks.

Doyle's picks lift Kennedy

By Jeff Dahn Gazette sportswriter

Just when it looked like Class 4A third-ranked Cedar Rapids Kennedy might shoot itself in the foot, D.J. Doyle gave the Cougars a shot in the arm.

Doyle, a speedy 5-10, 150-pound defensive back, returned fourth quarter pass interceptions 16 and 40 yards for touchdowns to lead Kennedy past pesky Cedar Rapids Washington, 26-14, in Mississippi Valley Conference football Friday night at Kingston Stadium.

The Cougars improved to 5-0 and remain alone on top of the MVC standings. Washington fell to 3-2 with its second straight

The game was tied at 14 a third of the way through the final period when Doyle staged his heroics. Washington was working from a second-and-9 on its own 16 when Doyle picked off a Bo Clancey screen pass at the line of scrimmage and sprinted into the end zone untouched with 8:07 left in the game.

Kennedy kicked off to the Warriors who then moved to their own 32 before Doyle stepped front and center again. This time he snagged a Clancey pass on the Warrior 40 yard line and ran down the left sideline for the TD.

"I just set out there in the flat waiting for that screen all night and when he finally threw it, I just reached up and grabbed it and ran as fast as I could," Doyle

Twins can't get it done vs. Toronto

TORONTO (AP) - Pinch-runner Mookie Wilson streaked home with the go-ahead run on a sacrifice fly in the seventh in-ning, then hit a three-run double in the eighth as the Toronto Blue Jays beat the Minnesota Twins, 7-2, Friday night in a meeting of division leaders.

The Blue Jays heralded the return of manager Cito Gaston, who had missed 33 games with back problems, with their third straight victory. They began the day 21/2 games ahead of Boston, which faced Milwaukee.

The Twins' magic number for clinching the AL West stayed at five. Second-place Chicago, which played Seattle, started the day eight games behind. Juan Guzman (9-2) allowed three hits in eight innings and tied Dave Stieb's 1988 club record by winning his ninth consecutive decision. The streak ties Minnesota's Kevin Tapani for the league's second-longest this season.

Guzman, who hasn't lost since dropping his first two starts in June, walked three and struck out nine before Duane Ward relieved in the ninth.

For the second time this season, he outdueled Tapani (16-9), who gave up six hits and three runs in seven innings. Guzman also bested Tapani 1-0 on June 27 for his first victory. Tapani had won 14 of his previous 16 decisions.

After Paul Sorrento's homer off Guzman made it 2-2 in the top of the inning, Dave Parker led off Toronto's seventh with his second double of the game.

Wilson pinch-ran and went to third on Pat Borders' sacrifice before pinch hitter Rance Mulliniks lifted a foul fly to left fielder Dan Gladden. Gladden hesitated for an instant because the ballbly was in the way, and his throw was in foul territory, allowing Wilson to jump over catcher Brian Harper's lunging tag attempt.

Walden, Cyclones hope Utter is needed spark against Rice

Gazette sportswriter

HOUSTON - What Iowa State's football team probably needs more than anything else is a big win, a real confidence

Today when the Cyclones face Rice, they'll turn to one guy who doesn't lack in confidence to lead them out of the doldrums. Bobby Utter has replaced Chris Pedersen at quarterback for the 3:45 p.m. game.

Iowa State has just one touchdown and three field goals in its last two games. In a 7-6 loss at Wisconsin last week, the offense "never made a play, not one," Walden said.

The perfect scenario for Iowa State would be to, at last, sustain some drives and keep the ball out of the hands of Cobb and his buddies, who are averaging 32 points a game.

Prairie near perfect vs. Hempstead

By Bob Denney

In the weekly rumble known as Mississippi Valley Conference football, some nights are diamonds.

Cedar Rapids Prairie sparkled under a full harvest moon Friday night at John Wall Field, combining a swarming defense and a 40-yard interception return by Brian Padget to down Dubuque Hempstead, 14-7.

It was a near-flawless Prairie performance no turnovers and key plays by a host of Hawks. Prairie improved to 2-3 while Hempstead slumped to 1-4.

It was Prairie's second consecutive win over Hempstead, squaring the series which began in 1988 at 2-2.

"It seemed whenever Prairie needed to have it they got it," said Hempstead Coach Roger Baylor, whose Mustangs dropped their fourth consecutive game. "We made a lot of mistakes tonight, but it was a team effort. Not just one thing.'

"In this league you're never going to get a breather," said Prairie Coach Craig Jelinek, 'whether you're 2-3 or whether you're 5-0.

The league rivals are trademark defensive and ground-oriented units, testified by a rugged scoreless first half. Yet Prairie junior quarterback Troy Smith left his mark, despite suffering a knee injury just befor halftime. He played the entire game, completing 9 of 15 passes for 77 yards. Teammate Bret Jones snared four passes for 57 yards, most of his receptions in traffic. Jones also threw a pass which was dropped by wide-open Kevin Subbert just before halftime.

U.S. lead is slim after 1st day's play

- Britain's best played so poorly they'll be broken up, but the Spanish juggernaut continued to roll and kept Europe close in defense of the Ryder Cup.

The former, Nick Faldo of England and Masters champion Ian Woosnam of Wales, lost twice and were largely responsible for the Americans' unaccustomed and strangely unsatisfactory early lead.

The latter, Seve Ballesteros and Jose Maria Olazabal, scored a pair of 2 and 1 victories in opening matches Friday.

"I don't think either team was real satisfied with what happened today," American captain Dave Stockton said after his team had salvaged a 41/2-31/2 ad-

That is, of course, the smallest possible margin, but it is a lead. And it's the first time in four years that the Americans have come out of opening day play in anything other than a catch-up

It's far, far better, for example, than the 5-3 and 6-2 deficits faced by the Americans in the last two Ryder Cups, in 1987 and '89.

But it was unsatisfactory in that the lead could have been and perhaps should have been larger in the old biennial competition that has grown to enormous stature and prestige in recent years.

Ballesteros and Olazabal, for example, were 3-down at the turn in the morning foursomes, in which each two-man team plays alternate shots on the same ball.

After a brief confrontation about the rules, they won three of the next four holes and went on to the victory that prevented an American sweep of the morning matches.

In the afternoon fourball play, 1 in morning foursomes.

with scoring based on the better ball of each two-man team, David Feherty of Northern Ireland dropped an 18th-hole, 10-foot, par-saving putt that capped a comeback from a 3-down deficit at the turn and salvaged a half against weary Lanny Wadkins and Mark O'Meara.

"I think Lanny and Mark could have come out of that a half-point better," said Stockton, whose team is attempting to break a six-year European hold on the trophy that first went up for play in 1927.

Another possible half-point was lost in the match that closed the 101/2 hours of windblown play in the sand dunes and marshes of the new Ocean course on this resort island.

Again, it was Ballesteros and Olazabal doing the damage.

European captain Bernard Gallacher was less than happy with the performace of Woosnam and Faldo, a pairing that had won six of a possible eight points in team play in 1987 and '89.

They lost twice this windy day, a 5 and 3 drubbing by Ray Floyd and Fred Couples in the afternoon fourballs and 1-up to Mark Calcavecchia and Payne Stewart in the morning foursomes, and played so poorly Gallacher will break them up for the first time since 1987.

Ray Floyd, at 49 the oldest man ever to play in these matches and the only former captain to return as a competitor, and Fred Couples were the most productive of the American pairs.

Faldo and Woosnam were their second victims of the day. They beat Bernhard Langer of Germany and Mark James 2 and

Because Sportsmen Pay Over $1 Billion a Year for Conservation

When Congress established National Hunting & Fishing Day 20 years ago, the day was hailed as "An idea whose time had come Thousands of sportsmen's clubs across the nation hosted activities, publicizing the sportsman's role in conservation and enlisting pub ic support of the wise management of our natural resources.

Today, the need to inform the public about the sportsman's role in supporting conservation has taken on a new importance, making the 20th Anniversary of National Hunting & Fishing Day on September 28, 1991, an idea whose time has come. Again! Here are some of the facts on the sportsman's role in conserva-

Fact: Hunters and fishermen pay over $760 million a year for licenses and permits to hunt and fish.

Fact: Since the Pittman-Robertson Federal Aid in Wildlife Restoration Act was passed in 1937, sportsmen have provided more than $3 billion for state fish & wildlife conservation programs. They add over $298 million more each year through the payment of excise taxes on sporting arms and ammunition, fishing tackle and archery equipment.

Fact: Revenues from the sale of hunting and fishing licenses on the average provide about three-quarters of the funding of the 50 state fish and wildlife agencies. To date, sportsmen have contributed over $10 billion in license fees. This money makes possible the purchase of millions of acres of wild life habitat and helps pay for research, conservation, education, restocking programs and other related activities that help all wildlife — songbirds and chipmunks as well

Fact: Hunters provide about $16 million each year through the purchases of duck stamps which are required for the hunting of waterfowl. Purchases of duck stamps have provided over $350 million for waterfowl conservation in the last 40

Fact: Additionally, hunters and fishermen spend an estimated $270 million a year to improve fish and wildlife habitat on private lands. They also provide a majority of the support for private conservation groups such as the National Wildlife Federation, Ducks Unlimited, Trout Unlimited, The Izaak Walton League, Audubon Society and others.
