Hawks-Ducks: Who will fly?

ill Walsh saw Oregon as a middle-of-the-road football program with limited resources, the kind of team Stanford should handle. So it says in "Rough Magic," Lowell Cohn's book about Walsh's return to coaching Stanford's football team.

It's unlikely Hayden Fry will look upon Oregon the same way today, when his Iowa Hawkeyes play there before a crowd of about only 30,000. Limited resources or not, in 1989 the Ducks made Iowa quack up in Kinnick Stadium, 44-6.

That was back when Oregon was good enough to go to a bowl game, albeit the Independence. The Ducks seemingly possess no such ability this year. Whether the Hawks do is still open to

If weather conditions allow, this could be a 38-35 game. Based on last week's play, defense isn't the calling card of either squad. The Ducks have allowed a combined 70 points in consecutive losses to Western Athletic Conference members Hawaii and Utah. Four of the Ducks' top six tacklers are defensive backs, which tells you all you need to know about how they defend their end

Forget the Oregon Trail. These days, it's Oregon trails.

Given their sizes, facilities and budgets, Oregon and Oregon State should be in the WAC rather than the Pac-10. Oregon State hasn't been to the Rose Bowl for New Year's since 1965, which is seven years more recent than Oregon's last appearance in Granddaddy Bowl Game. Eugene is a pretty place with a lot of trees and liberal thinkers. A football factory, it isn't.

Pac-10 football as a whole seems to be sliding away. It is a paltry 10-9-1 in nonconference games and just 2-5 against the WAC. Not long ago, those were the sorts of numbers the Big Ten once held while holding its nose. Today, the Big Ten may honestly be the nation's premier football league, while the Pac-10 is better off bragging about its Pacific Ocean, its Sonora Desert and its great restaurants of San Francisco.

The Big Ten is even on a two-game Rose Bowl winning streak, with a threepeat likely next Jan. 2. Between 1975 and 1987, the Pac-10 won all but one Rose Bowl. What has caused this seismic shift in the competitive landscape of the two conferences?

"I think the Big Ten in the last four, five years, has much more speed and quickness than it used to have," Fry said. "It used to be we just had several players with speed. Michigan had an Anthony Carter and a few others that could really run. Now there are so many more Big Ten teams that have excellent speed.

"We've always had the big physical size and tough kids. But every team in the Big Ten has really added the speed factor. And that's been the equalizer more than anything else."

The NCAA knocked Washington off its high horse, and several other Pac-10 programs seem stuck in the gate. California, so convincing against Iowa in the Alamo Bowl, has lost to San Diego State and Hawaii. Arizona State fell at home to Louisville. Fresno State beat Oregon State. Stanford was lucky to get a tie at Northwestern. USC and UCLA have been blasted at Penn State and Nebraska, respectively.

But the Pac-10 has been anything but a soft touch for Fry, who is 3-6 against that league while at Iowa, including 0-4 in bowls. Washington, California, UCLA and Oregon have given his teams pastings. But the Ducks don't seem to have any paste left in their jar.

For the second straight week, the Hawkeyes have ventured to a scenic, wooded section of America to play a football game. It won't be 61-21 today, though a total of 82 points could again be scored.

The oddsmakers say Oregon by a point. But isn't Iowa as good as Hawaii or Utah? We don't know yet, do we?

Hawks put money on Banks

With Terry out, freshman back could see extensive play

Terry, the No. 2 tailback on the University of Iowa football team, will not play against Oregon today because of a sprained ankle, The Gazette

Terry's absence opens the door for Banks, the red-shirt freshman from Bettendorf who has looked good in limited duty as the third-string tailback. Banks is now No. 2 behind Sedrick Shaw, with freshman Tim Dwight

Lack of experience was keeping Banks off the field, kind of a Catch-22

"You have to understand, there are a whole lot of other responsibilities in that backfield, like blocking, picking up stunts and blitzes, reading the coverages," Fry said. "He just hasn't played enough."

The No. 2 tailback has been averaging 10 runs per game for Iowa this year. Today's forecast calls for temperatures near 90 degrees at kickoff, which means reserves could play a significant role.

Autzen Stadium has artificial turf, and Oregon Coach Rich Brooks estimates the on-field temperature could be more than 100 degrees because of the playing surface.

Hawks sport black socks for 14-6 victory

The Black Socks rose to the occasion Friday night at Cedar Rapids Prairie's Wall Field, but unlike the Black Sox of baseball lore, there was nothing scandalous about this performance.

Donning black socks instead of its traditional white, Prairie scored a pair of

Kennedy throttles J-Hawks

By Jeff Johnson Gazette sportswriter

A regulation football field is 100 yards long, but Cedar Rapids Jefferson could have sworn Friday night that it was a lot shorter than that.

Cedar Rapids Kennedy took advantage of terrific field position in the first half to score 28 points, sprinting to a 38-14 win over Jefferson at Kingston Stadium.

Kennedy won its second game in a row to improve to 2-2 in the Mississippi Division of the Mississippi Valley Conference. Jefferson dropped to 0-4 in the Valley Division.

"We played pretty well at times," Kennedy Coach Don Knock said. "I think we're getting better. We had a few letdowns in there, but I think we're playing a little better football. We had a good week of practice, and we did some things tonight that we wanted to do."

Jefferson took the opening kickoff out to its 31-yard line but never started a drive any closer than its 17 the rest of the half.

Concurrently, Kennedy started four of its first-half possessions inside Jefferson territory and the other two at its own 40 and 44, respectively.

"There's no question about it," Knock said. "Jefferson was awful good to us at times. They gave us the ball in good field position."

"It doesn't take a genius in the stands to see there are certain things you can do in certain areas of the field," Jefferson Coach Jim Dostal said. "If you make the fade pattern, then you get the ball out to the 40 and can do some things. That probably cost us."

A Jefferson fumble on the opening possession gave Kennedy the ball at the Jeff 32 and led to its first score. Fullback

Few new tricks left for UNI, McNeese State

Division I-AA powers know each other well

By J.R. Ogden

Gazette assistant sports editor Northern Iowa and McNeese State expect the expected today.

The two NCAA Division I-AA powers meet at the UNI-Dome in Cedar Falls in a 1:30 p.m. homecoming contest for the Panthers.

It is the fourth time in three years the two have clashed.

'We know an awful lot about them, and they know an awful lot about us,' said Panthers Coach Terry Allen.

"We know each other so well I don't know what else new we can come up with," Cowboys Coach Bobby Keasler said.

Keasler knows his team has trouble with the Panthers. Last year's 27-10 win in Lake Charles, La., was the Cowboys' first in the six-game series. Keasler also knows the Panthers are awfully good at home. They are 90-25-1 in the dome and have won 29 straight regular-season games there.

'We're 0-3 (in the UNI-Dome), and that's what we're concerned about," he

Allen also knows a thing or two about the Cowboys — most importantly that they are good.

Ranked No. 2 nationally in I-AA, McNeese State is 3-0 and has won its last 10 regular-season games. The Cowboys are averaging 341.3 yards and 23.3 points per game while allowing just 12. The Panthers are 2-1 and rated No. 9.

"They've got a couple of guys on both the offensive and defensive side of the ball who are huge," said Allen, who is after his 50th career win. "They've got a couple 300-pounders on the offense, and they've got a defensive tackle that's 314 pounds.

Those 300-pound offensive linemen left tackle Ronald Cherry (6-foot-4, 300) and right guard Marcus Vidrine (6-5, 301) — have opened some mighty big holes for another of the Cowboys' top players, junior tailback Henry Fields.

Jordan to play fall ball

PHOENIX (AP) — No surprise, Michael Jordan will be allowed to play in the Arizona Fall League.

The Chicago White Sox were granted an exemption by the commissioner's office Friday to add an extra player — Jordan. The decision had been delayed for two weeks because of baseball's labor problems. "There's a void in baseball right now, so the timing's very positive," Arizona Fall League executive vice president Steve Cobb

The league runs from Oct. 6 to Dec. 1 and is made up from six top prospects from all 28 teams. The White Sox did not originally list Jordan, so they asked for permission to include him.

In a must-win game for both principals, junior quarterback Eben Baumhover and reserve tailback Josh Frommelt also a junior — led Western Dubuque past Messerli's Marion team, 32-24, in overtime Friday night at Thomas Park.

Estling connected with Brecht from 14 yards out with 1:29 left in the half for a 19-0 lead. The big play of the drive was a 41-yard screen pass from Estling to Hayward. Estling's 36-yard broken-field run with LaSalle finished with 81 yards. The Lancers picked up 84 yards in two plays — a cherry-picker pass from junior Tony Fandel to senior Matt Corbett, who lateraled the ball to junior Josh Rank for a 50-yard play, and a 34-yard pass play from Fandel to junior Chad Klostermann.

LaSalle Coach Duane Schulte was not discouraged.

"These guys aren't quitters, they just need to get experience," he said. "If they stick with it good things are going to happen this year and definitely next."
